M'ADOO'S DRIVE IS IN FINAL STAGE

TAKES ADVISORY CHARGE OF HIS FORCES AT ONCE

Will Arrive in New York Today From Los Angeles to Look After Last Minute Details of His Campaign —Walsh Favored as Permanent Chairman.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 18.—The campaign of Wm. G. McAdoo for the Democratic nomination for president enters on its final phase with his arrival from Los Angeles today to take advisory charge of his forces. Several thousand, it is anticipated, will be at the depot to greet Mr. McAdoo, who will be accompanied by his wife and two daughters.

The welcoming delegation will form a parade and conduct the former secretary of the treasury to the Hotel Vanderbilt, which will be his home during the convention. He has engaged the suite formerly occupied by Enrico Caruso.

National committee men and delegates already in town are displaying a decided sentiment in favor of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, leader in the oil lease investigation, as permanent chairman of the convention. It is generally agreed that inasmuch as the oil scandals are virtually certain to be one of the chief issues of the campaign it would be a wise move to capitalize the Montana senator's nationally known connection with the investigation. There is also the feeling that it behooves the party to show Senator Walsh this appreciation for his efforts.

Although this favoring sentiment makes Senator Walsh's selection highly probable, his choice hasa yet to be ratified by the full national committee. Members of the democratic national committee let it be known last night that Homer S. Cummins, often mentioned for the chairmanship on the committee on rules, was virtually certain to be chosen chairman of the committee on resolutions unless unexpected opposition developed.

In the camp of both Mr. McAdoo and Gov. Smith indifference is expressed as to the result of the fight which may be provoked by the proposal to do away with the traditional two-thirds rule.

It is no secret, however, that certain of the McAdoo leaders would be pleased if the convention should adopt a rule providing for the nomination of a candidate by a majority rule. On the other hand the followers of Gov. Smith, as well as the sponsors of several of the less prominent candidates, seem bent on doing all in their power to have the two-thirds rule retained.

A boom for David F. Houston, former secretary of the treasury and of agriculture, has been started by circuit Judge Ewing Cockrell, of Warrensburg, Missouri, son of the late United States Senator Cockrell.

Headquarters for Former Governor James M. Cox, John W. Davis, Senator Underwood and Gov. Smith will be open today at the Waldorf Astoria, where the national democratic committee has its headquarters.

McADOO IS CONFIDENT

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHNGITON, June 18.— William G. McAdoo, candidate for the Dem- presidential nomination, passed thru Washington early today en route from Los Angeles to New York. He was greeted by a cheering crowd at the Union Station both upon his arrival and his departure. During the fifty minute stay here Mr. and Mrs. McAdod paid a brief visit to the residence of the late President Wilson.

Just before the McAdoo train departed three railroad employes hoisted the candidate to their shoulders and carried him along the station concourse.

"I am confidn of victory no matter whether they adopt the two-thirds rule or the majority rule," McAdoo declared, referring to the procedure of the Democratic national convention next week.

While at the station here Mr. McAdoo was presented with a way bill for his train from Bernardino, California, to Washington with signatures of 15,000 Railway employes. E. C. Davidson, secretary if the International Association of Machinists, made the presentation saying:

"It's from California to the White House."

"All right, that train order shall be carried out," the candidate replied.

As the train pulled out Mr. McAdoo stood on the steps and shouted: "Well, good bye, I'll be back and stage a real reception for you myself on March 4, 1925."

Arrest Clears Up Number of Jewel Robberies In Norfolk

(By The Associated Press.)

NORFOLK, Va., June 18.—Link by link, police are today amassing a chain of evidence against Karl Von Barkoff, of Baltimore, suspected of burglarizing scores of fashionable orfolk homes during the crime wave which hasa continued unchecked for some time. A string of pearls which Barkoff, police allege, had in his possession when arrested were today identified as the property of Mrs. Richard D Cooke, prominent in Norfolk society. They were stolen from Mrs. Cooke's home June 11th.

Barkoff waived examination today in police court on a house-breaking charge brought after Mrs. J. Hampton Harris told police that a wrist watch in Barkoff's possession had been stolen fro mher home. The Cooke and Harris burglaries with which Barkoff is alleged to have been connected, involve the loss of $7,500 in stolen jewels and clothing.

DEATH OF INFANT

James Clyde, year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Henry Lewis, of 74 Washington avenue, passed away yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral was held this afternoon from the residence and interment made in the Schoolfield cemetery.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 18. —Women delegates and committee women to the national Democratic convention next week, announced today, they would not operate as a women's bloc and would function as individuals.

Predicting that the feminine Democrats will exercise a greater influence on their convention than did their sisters at the Cleveland Republican gathering, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee said that the women would express their opinion on the convention floor" without fear or favor." The total voting strength of the women will be 462. Quite a number of the women members already have arrived. They will have a meeting Sunday.

Tammany, it is announced, is organizing a "mixer campaign" with the design of "selling" Gov. Smith to the convention delegates. The delegates are to be looked upon as "buyers" to whom the Tammany "salesmen" will extoll their candidate. Groups of Tammany members will mix with the visiting delegates in leisure hours and serve as hosts to groups or individual on every possible occasion.

George L. Berry, of Tennessee, president, of th eInternational Printing Pressmen, and assistants Union of North America has opened headquarters in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel from which he is directing his campaign for the vice presidential nomination.

A national Democratic convention of negroes met in Harlem yesterday and adopted a resolution, in which they declared "the Democratic platform has always been broad enough for our feet." Oscar H. Waters, who was reelected chairman of the national negro Democratic committee said yesterday's convention represented 500,000 dissatisfied negro voters. "The colored people have voted the Republican ticket for generations," he said, "but the Republican party is mixed up with people who have a supreme hatred of our race."

It was learned today that the feeling between the opposing Democratic factions in Missouri had become so bitter that the dry an dwets would travel to New York on separate trains. The Kansas City contingent, generally classed as wet, will not be on either train.

Broadway theatre men announced today that seats for all performances at their houses next week were being sold at the regular box office prices. It was said that the top box office prices for any New York entertainment during the convention would be $5.50, which is the prevailing scale for the big musical productions.

One hundred or more alternates to the convention will have to be seated in the gallery of Madison Square Garden rather than on the convention floor. Tickets were printed for 1,336 delegates and it was discovered today that there would 1,146 of them present at the convention. As the result said Isadore Dockweiler, national committeeman of California, and chairman of the committee of arrangement, the overflow will have to be put into gallery seats.

Camp Ro-Li-Ki Is Opened Today

Camp Ro-LiKi was formally opened for the season today when boys and young men left the Y. M. C. A. for a ten days' stay at the camp, about ten miles from the city. The boys were in charge of M. L. Skaggs and Frank Murriel. Others who went were Spencer James, George James, Carrington Harrison, Harvey Blair, Ralph Lester, Fred Robertson, William Gray Jordan, Carroll Duberry, Willie Gaston, Walter Fox, Bryan Tate, Randolp Bowles, Bernard Adams, Troy Barbee, Cecil Lester, Jessie Fix and Hugh Clements. Cars were furnished to carry the boys by F. H. Wheatley, O. L. Roach and Messrs. Blackwell and Booth.

Everything was in readiness for the first visitors to the camp. The large mess had been completed, the dam had been repaired and swimming pool filled. In fact nothing remained undone to make the place one of every convenience and enjoyment.

Rev. David Kern Died This Morning

(By The Associated Press.)

STAUNTON, Va., June 18.—The Rev. David H. Kern, D. D., widely known minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a member of the Baltimore conference, died here this morning after a lingering illness. Dr. Keen served in the ministry for many years. His last large pastorate was at Roanoke, Va., where he served Greene Memorial Church for about two years and where he suffered a serious breakdown which soon thereafter resulted in his retiring from the active work of the ministry.

MAYO WORSLEY'S SERVICE REWARDED BY REYNOLDS, HEADS LOCAL PLANT JULY 1

Rewarded for diligent service performed for the past twenty years, Mayo M. Worsley becomes plant manager and head leaf buyer for the R. J. Reyonlds Tobacco Company of this city on July 1, according to an announcement made by the corporation this morning. As was recently recorded Rice Gwynn for many years head of the Virginia interests of this large and well-known tobacco firm has resigned, effective July 1st, and it was incumbent on officials of the company to make replacements before Mr. Gwynn retires from active association with the concern.

Mr. Worsley will have charge of the Danville branch of the corporation and on the same day, James C. Dodson, of Winston-Salem will become supervisor of the Virginia Leaf Market which is the position held by Mr. Gwynn at the present time.

The elevation of the Danville man to the position of local manager met with favorable comment in the trade which has for several days been interested in the decision of the company officials. It is another instance of a company recognizing the efficiency and faithful service of a member of its staff and rewarding him accordingly. Mr. Worsley came to Danville from Ruffin, N. C., in 1900 and began work in a humble capacity in the redrying plant. In the past twenty ears he has been promoted from time to time becoming successively buyer and then assistant manager, which position he now holds. During the early season he has been in South Carolina in the interests of the R. J. Reyonlds Company and on two other occasions during the dull season was with the sales department assisting in marketing the company's products. It will thus be seen that Mr. Worsley started at the bottom and on July 1st will assume leadership of the local organization.

The further announcement is made that A. Y. Jeffries well known in the local trade as is Mr. Worsley, will become assistant to the plant manager.

James C. Dodson who becomes supervisor of the Virginia leaf market, will have his headquarters at Winston Salem where the head offices of the corporation are established. He also is an experienced leaf man and is known in Danville. He has been connected with the corporation for the past nineteen years and for a greater portion of that time has kept in close touch with a number of Virginia markets. He was located for about five years at South Hill as buyer for the corporation be in called from there to Winston to assume a more important position. Mr. Dodson was quoted today as saying that he was well pleased with the prospect of working with the organization as built up by his predecessor, Mr. Gwynn whose going is keenly regretted by the company officials. He is further quoted as having stated that he contemplated no changes in the Danville personnel and that it would be maintained as at present.

PREDICTS FARMER-LABOR PARTY WILL EVENTUALLY HOLD SWAY IN AMERICA

Senator Taylor Declares Some Day They Will Dispose of Capitalistic Parties—Urges Ballot Box Revolution—Scores Democrats and Republicans.

(By The Associated Press.)

ST. PACL, Minn., June 18.—Prediction that the farmer-labor party eventually would "dispose of the two capitalistic parties that hold the power today," was made by Charles E. Taylor, Montana, state senator, in an address today formally accepting the permanent chairmanship of the national farmer-labor progressive convention.

Mr. Taylor severely criticized the Democratic and Republican parties and issued an appeal to farmers and workers to unite more closely for political action and urged "ballot box revolution."

He greeted the delegates in "the name of thousands upon thousands of bankrupt farmers—farmers who during the past few years, have lost their all; in the name of the constantly increasing numbers of the unemployed, and the workers of this nation."

"Out of this historic," said Mr. Taylor, "is destined to grow the greatmass clas sfarmer labor party, a party that in a few short years will dispose of the two capitalistic parties that hold the power today, and take over the power in this nation in the name of the workers and producers of the realm, setting up a government of the workers, for the workers and by the workers."

Good Morning Judge!

A light docket was dealt with by the mayor this morning. The case of Frank Dillard, colored, charged with housebreaking was continued. A charge of speeding against Jack Jones colored, was also put off. William Noble and Ruth Robertson, colored, were assessed $21 and costs on statutory charges. C. T. McCubbins drew $11 and costs for violating traffic ordinance. Lee Waddill, colored, was fined $11 and costs for reckless driving. The case of Claiborne Thomas, colored for reckless driving was continued.

HOME OF EDSEL FORD ROBBED OF $100,000 GEMS

Job Believed to Be Inside One and All Employes Are Fingerprinted.

(By The Associated Press.)

DETROIT, June 18.— Police have obtained finger prints of all employes in the house and about the grounds of the residence of Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, in connection with the robbery of $10,000 worth of jewelry Saturday night. The robbery was made public late yesterday by police. Clear finger prints were left by the thief, according to police.

The jewels, in a silver case, included a pearly necklace of 205 pearls with platinum clasp set with a one karat diamond, valued at $67,000, a pearl necklace of 103 graded pearls with a platinum clasp set with a one half karat diamond, valued at $27,000; Mrs. Ford's wedding ring, a platinum band of scroll design a guard ring encircled with one eighth karat diamonds and a gold octagonal ring.

Ford's residence, surrounded by a high wall tipped with spikes, is guarded constantly by fifteen men and police expressed themselves as being skeptical that any thief could break through this cordon. The jewels were taken from the bedroom of Mrs. Ford while she and her husband were entertaining two guests, it was announced.

The robber was discovered when Mrs. Ford went to her room early Sunday morning.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fearington, Miss Dorothy and Dr. Fearington, of DeLand, Fla., are visiting their mother, Mrs. C. M. Waddill, "Cedar View". Mr. Fearington and family are being greeted by their many friends in the city.

TALBOT PROBES KICK ON WATER

Following published reports of unsatisfactory water pressure and service in North Danville, Frank Talbott, superintendent of the city water department made a personal survey of the situation this morning following which he issued a prepared statement dealing with it. The complaint was that water was about two feet deep in the Northside reservoir and that pressure was inadequate, also that "frogs, snakes and tadpoles" could be found there and that the reservoir is generally neglected.

Mr. Talbott inspected the reservoir this morning and found the water about five feet in depth, following last night's pumping operation. He said he saw no sign of foreign matter in the water. The trouble, he stated, is annually encountered each summer when the consumption of water is increased and when those houses in the immediate vicinity and almost on the same level as the bottom of the reservoir find it hard to draw water in the evening.

Mr. Talbott stated that it was his intention to have the booster pump under Worsham street bridge which puts water into the reservoir started tonight an hour earlier in the hope of being able to get a higher stand of water. The booster pump operates from midnight until 5 or 6 in the morning. These hours are chosen because when the pump is in operation there is a reduction of pressure approximating twenty pounds on the south side of the river and it is desirable not to operate the pump during the hours of community activity. The only complaints which have been recorded from North Danville, enquiry at the water department reveals, came from Dr. L. L. Vann, whose houses are near the reservoir. Councilman Guy Walton heard about the complaint this morning and took the matter up with the superintendent, who hopes to remedy the situation by prolonging the pumping operation.

The superintendent's prepared statement is as follows:

"The water in the Northside reservoir is low, as is frequently true at this season of the year. The city is doing all it physically can do without inconveniencing the entire city to overcome the present low stage of the water on the high points of the northside. The quality of the water is above suspicion. The report as to frogs, etc., is not true. The reservoir is surrounded by a low concrete wall intended to prevent any small insects from entering. The water supply is in this particular far safer than any well or spring would be."

"When the water is low in the northside reservoir it affects more or less seriously water taken by those who ask for water in spite of the handicap which while objectionable is known to them in advance. The complaint thus far made has come from citizens of the county and not of the city. These citizens live at the high points adjacent to Danville and are aware that they are more liable to have trouble than are citizens who have greater natural pressure.

"The city water works is doing all it can do under the physical handican surround the city and not only this city but practically every other city where there is a residential section as high as the water itself is.

"The present council and previous councils have not felt justified in spending several hundred thousands of dollars to remove a trouble which affects only a very small percentage of its total population."

The Neapolis reservoir was put into use a few years ago following complaint of water pressure at many points on the northside. An electric pump was installed under Worsham street bridge to fill it. At the time a general improvement in pressure was observed. The reservoir, however, is never completely filled for it is two feet higher than the Ballou Park reservoir and to fill up the northside container would, on completion of the pumping operation, result the Ballou Park container being overflowed by the run-back. Rarely more than nine feet of water is accumulated in the northside basin. During the day the usage in North Danville consumers lowers the level so that in the evening just prior to the pumping operation the pressure is at its weakest and is thus more apparent especially at this season when garden hose is being used.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER IS IDENTIFIED

Walter Sidnor Sought Following Discovery; Couple Had Been Unhappy and Had Agreed on Peaceful Separation.

(By The Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., June 18.—Richmond police were making every effort today to locate Walter Jordan Sidnor, 28, following identification late yesterday of the body of a young woman found in the James river, that of his wife, Mrs. Violet Worley Sidnor. Nothing has been heard of the husband since he left the home of his wife's parents Saturday afternoon after a long talk with Mrs. Sidnor.

E. M. Rainey, step father of the dead woman, who with her mother identified the body, told the police that Sidnor arrived here Saturday afternoon from Columbus, Ohio, after the husband had spent a month ineffectual efforts to secure work there and at Roanoke, Va., and other places. Rainey and the girl's mother said the Sidnors had been unhappy since the wife discovered soon after their marriage here on April 4 last that Sidnor had another wife in this city. Immediately after arriving at the Rainey home on Saturday they added, the couple had a long talk and Mrs. Sidnor told them later that she and her husband had agreed to separate peacefully. They declared the woman was to meet her husband outside that evening for their final talk. Rainey said he gave Sidnor a change of linen and that he then left the house, to be followed at about seven o'clock by Mrs. Sidnor. That was the last time either was seen by Mrs. and Mrs. Rainey.

Mr. and Mrs. Rainey said they did not become alarmed when Mrs. Sidnor failed to return to their home, thinking she and her husband had again agreed to a reconciliation and that they had taken a room at a hotel. Mrs. Sidnor told them before leaving to meet her husband, they said, that Sidnor objected to staying at the Rainey home because of a dislike for Rainey. It was only after Mr. Rainey read a description of the clothing on the body found in the river yesterday morning that she feared for her daughter's safety.

She said she awaited her husband's return from work and they went to the morgue together.

"I could not recognize Violet by her features alone, since they were changed a great deal by the water, but I would know her clothes if I had seen them at the end of the world," Mrs. Rainey declared. "Why I remember distinctly ironing that blue crepe de chine dress with the gold cord around the ruffles Saturday."

Coroner J. M. Whitfield was firm in the belief today that Mrs. Sidnor was dead when she was thrown into the river. Death, he said had been probably caused by a fracture of the skull. The coroner declared her head was badly lacerated and that her arms and body were bruised, indicating she fought for her life. The lungs, he added, were virtually free from water.

TOWN TOPICS

Judge D. Price Withers who has been ailing recently, leaves tonight for Baltimore, where he will enter Johns Hopkins University Hospital, for treatment of his leg in which rheumatism settled. From Baltimore he will probably go to Hot Springs, where it is hoped that the course of treatment will restore him to health and strength. There is a possibility that he may undergo an operation for removal of tonsils if Johns Hopkins diagnosticians recommend this step, in which event, Judge Withers plans returning to Danville for this minor operation.

Final touches are being put to the organization which within the next few days will seek subscriptions to the fund needed by the Danville Post American Legion to "putover" the state legion convention to be held here in August. The Chamber of Commerce some months ago underwrote the budget of between $4,500 and $5,000 and just as soon as the chairmanship of the drive has been determined the work will go forward, probably during the coming week. Post Commander Waverley Cousins today reported that the convention plans are well in hand.

Chief of Police James R. Bell this morning announced that dogs found on the streets without muzzles and without metal tags, showing that they have been given the anti-rabic serum, will be taken up and impounded, the owners being subject to fines for violating the city ordinance. Chief Bell has not yet appointed a dog catcher. All animals taken up will be placed in the pound maintained at the city stables.

Further indications of the development of Lady Astor street were given today when it was learned that bids have been asked for the building of an eight-room brick home for R. R. Murray. The house will represent an investment of 12,000. Other property owners on that street and Westmoreland Court are preparing to build, it is said.

Rotarians, Kiwanis and Lions joined last night in the first group meeting embracing the membership of all three, supper being served to about 150 men at the Country Club, where an enjoyable evening was spent. The program embraced a period for jesting as well as for more serious work, the feature being an address by C. R. Titlow, of Washington, of the Federal Loan Bank and the Intermediate Credit Corporation who explained the modus operandi of the two organizations. Mr. Titlow spoke for about three quarters of an hour and enlightened the three organizations on the scope of co-operative federal financial agencies. Another feature of the evening were two monologues given by Howard Noyes, of Kenwood, N. Y., who was the guest yesterday of Curtis Dodson.

F. R. Titlow a member of the board of directors of the Federal Land Bank and the Federal Intermediate Corporation who was here yesterday to make an address was entertained at dinner yesterday afternoon by W. R. Fitzgerald, president of the Agricultural Credit Corporation of Virginia at the Tuscarora Club. Mr. Fitzgerald had invited to be present bankers from Chatham, Keyesville, Drakes Branch, Gretna and Blackstone and ten people were present. An interesting discussion was had concerning the functions of the federal organizations.

Charles K. Carter this morning conferred with his attorneys relative to the impending legal contest on the vote for mayor in the Municipal election of June 10th. Enquires of the attorneys revealed that the contest would not be filed today but it was indicated that the step would be taken within the next few days. The petition for a contest will be filed with the clerk of the Corporation and will await the convening of the Corporation court on the first Monday in July, when Judge William R. Barksdale will be presiding.

COUNTERFEIT NICKEL IS BEING CIRCULATED

(By The Associated Press.)

LYNCHBURG, Va., June 18.—The Retail Merchants Association here has advised its members to be on the look out for a counterfeit 5-cent piece, which is said to be cleverly executed. Some of the coins have been found in circulation here, Hugh A. Christian, president of the association, said.

WOULD ABANDON ROAD

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Roanoke Railway applied today for interstate commerce commission permission to abandon 8¼ miles of road between Brunswick and Horners, Va.

Committee Named to Further Plan of City Mission

Definite steps looking to the establishment of the Interdenominational City Mission were taken yesterday when lay representatives of all the city churches met at the Young Men's Christian Association for the purpose of discussing organization. Frank Talbott was named temporary chairman and following a discussion of the needs of such a mission a motion was adopted asking the chair to appoint a committee on organization and nomination of an official roster of officers. The chair elected John B. Harvie, chairman, the other members being A. T. Surles, H. S. Lanier, John L. Edwards and E. G. Moseley. This committee will meet before the end o fthe week and upon an agreement will notify the temporary chairman who will call the laymen together to hear the report. The committee will probably suggest the best way of financing the mission. Whether the sustaining funds will be asked of the various church finance committees or of individual church members remains to be decided. The laymen present yesterday concurred in the belief that there is a useful field for the city mission which would be instrumental in bringing converted men and women into the churches of their choice.

ON CAMPING TRIP

Floyd Towell, traffic officer, his son, and Ben Heffinger, Singleton Heffinger and I. H. Harris, police officer left early this afternoon on a camping and fishing trip in the Houston neighborhood. The party will spend several days, planning to return to the city Saturday.

CHARGE M'DONALD OFFENSIVE TOWARD THE MUSSOLINI GOVT.

(By The Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 18.—Premier MacDonald and his ministerial colleagues are charged by the anti-government press and parliamentarians with adopting an amazingly offensive attitude toward the Mussolini government in Italy by at least tacit approval of a condemnatory resolution passed yesterday at a meeting of the British labor party, at which Mr. MacDonald and some of the other ministers were present. The resolution after recording the party's "profound detestation" of the kidnaping of the socialist deputy Matteotti sends "warm sympathy and hearty support to the socialist party of Italy in its struggle against the forces that are trampling upon the fundamental principles of liberty and democracy.

It is not clear whether Premier MacDonald and his colleagues voted for the resolution, but it is stated they did not cast their ballots against it. Apologists for the government say the resolution merely expresses the gratitude of the labor party and does not commit the administration.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Gretna

GRETNA, Va., June 17.—Albert W. Pickrel who was 64 years old the 6th day of this month, died at his home about one mile west of Gretna at 4 o'clock a. m., Monday June 16th of heart failure. Mr. Pickrel who was a prosperous farmer, a good husband, a good father, and a good neighbor had suffered many attacks of heart trouble for the past year. He was seemingly as well as usual until about an hour before his death. He is survived by his wife and nine children as follows: G. M. Pickrel, formerly with the U. S. army, also the fire commission of Washington, D. C., but now associated with the post office at Chatham, Va.; W. B Pickrel who is employed by Lowell & Son, Gretna, Paul Pickrel U. S. marine, who is located in N. J; Eddie Pickrel who has a contract for transfering mail from Gretna to enhook; Mrs. J. C. Hughey of Piny Fork; Mrs. Richard Ashby of Richmond, Va.; Mrs W. L. Keesee, Mrs. J. P. Lovelace, and Miss Lena Pickrel of Gretna.

Interment was made at the family cemetery Tuesday afternoon June 17, Rev. J. R. Gill conducting the funeral services.

Alonzo M. Peak age 62, died at his home near Mount Airy Pittsylvania County Saturday June 14. Funeral services were conducted by Rev J. W. Barber at New Bethel church Sunday afternoon. Deceased is survived by a large number of children.

Thornton Simmons of near Chalk Level who was about 27 years old, died in the General Hospital, Lynchburg, Va., Monday June 16, following an operation for appendicitis. Interment was made in the Mill Creek church cemetery near his home, Tuesday June 17. A wife and one child survive.

Gretna and vicinity was struck by another very hard rain Monday afternoon. Farming lands were again washed right badly but not nearly so much damage was done as by the heavy rain one week previous.

Mrs. J. T. Moon has returned from Jefferson Hospital, Roanoke, much improved.

Henry Laprade and family of Lynchburg are guests of Mrs Laprade's mother, Mrs. Mollie Bennett.

Miss Excie Robertson of near Danville is guest of Miss Clara James Witcher this week.

Geo. D. Mathews and Raymond Altice spent Sunday in Roanoke.

Mr. and Mrs Ramon Scruggs have returned from their "honeymoon".

E. A. Giles, Ruport Powell and Miss Ruth Powell motored to Roanoke Sunday.

The farmers are becoming somewhat alarmed over the prospects of a poor wheat yield if we have much more cloudy weather for the next few days. The wheat crop has been very promising until recently.

WHOLESALE DISMISSAL OF CHINESE OFFICIALS

TSINGTAO, China, June 17.—Governor Kao En-hung's "big stick" regime, which began recently with the dismissal of 147 department officials and advisers, gives promise of further interesting days in Tsingtao's usually pracid existence Having pacified the police, who were on the verge of mutiny because of three months arreas of pay, the new governor and his staff are on the alert for threatened counter attacks by the ousted ones.

The historic administration building, overwhich the flags of Germany, Japan and China have floated, never witnessed a more exciting day than that of the recent political housecleaning. Governor Kao began operations at 8 a. m., an unheadof thing, and the dismissed employes left swearing all sorts of vengeance The erstwhile director of general affairs, who was the ringleader in the sallies upon the public treasury admitted to the new administration that there was not a copper to turn over and refused to surrender his records and files He succeeded in slipping out of the city after having once been stopped by the police.

After the police had been paid their arrears of salary, the governor was astounded to receive word that the police chief had resigned. Investigation showing that he had been bribed by a wealthy Chinese, who had made a fortune in illicit opium trade, and who wanted to block any inquiry. The governor gave both men a limited time in which to remove themselves from his jurisdiction.

The sole survivor of the former administration is D. T. Lin, director of forestry and agriculture, an American trained specialist in his department.

ARGENTINE FARMERS HAVE ROSY PROSPECT

BUENOS AIRES, June 17.—Argentina is a land where fortunes are to be made in the intensive type of farming, in the judgment of Leon M Estabrook, an American agricultural expert who has been reorganizing the statistical and crop reporting department of the Argentine ministry of agriculture.

Referring to the marvelous agricultural development in his own country in the past 25 years, Mr Estabrook said he felt confident that similar changes would be witnessed in Argentina within the next 1 or 20 years. "The tide of immigration already has begun to flow in the direction of Argentina," he said "The vacant spaces soon will be filled up and become productive, and ne wcrops such as cotton, sugar fruits, nuts and vegetables, will become important The mineral and forest resources of Argentina will be developed, new industries will be established to manufacture and utilize the raw material produced in the country, and to supply the needs of a rapidly growing population New towns will spring up and all this activity will give employment to the men and the capital of Argentina

"I expect these changes to come rapidly, because the people of Argentina impress me as being very adaptable, which is a sign of youth vitality and intelligence They are quick to adopt improved methods and can therefore profit by the experience of other countries."

BUNGALOW SPELLS HOME

©AMERICAN BUILDER MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

THE FIVE-ROOM BUNGALOW AND PL ANS.

Real home atmosphere is brought out effectively by this singular bungalow. Its curving lines, simple ornamentatio nand quaint design literally invite visitors and promise a cheerful welcome.

The design, at the same time, gives the impression of substantial, massive comfort Yet it is planned to cover a small inside lot, instead of the large corner lots usually necessary for the average bungalow.

The floor plan shows a systematic economical arrangement of rooms with bedrooms isolated from the rest of the house and reached through the dining-room only.

Wonderful furnishing opportunities can be had in this living room, due to its two unbroken walls and its nearly square dimensions A suggestion for furnishing is given, although the sofa, for instance, can be put in place of the table in the front window. More chairs can be kept in the room, if needed, although a room with little furniture is much better than one cluttered up.

Similar furniture layouts are suggested in the other rooms

A French door divides the living-room from the dining-room. The French effect is carried further into the dining-room by the French windows which can be thrown open in summer to afford a pleasant dining place

The extra porch from the dining-room is another pleasant feature.

Housewives will like the kitchen for its square, roomy character, although it is not too large to make kitchen work tedious The pantry relieves the necessity of filling the kitchen with pantry shelves.

The best part of the kitchen, however, is the window-lit sink—a helpful feature to the woman who knows what it means to work at a sink which is darkened by her own shadow from the cente rceiling light.

The outside dimensions of the entir ehome is 28 feet by 40 feet In Chicago, where building costs are high, construction of the home alone would amount to about $7,000.

BUSINESS MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A business meeting of the Membership ommittee of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the Blue Triangle Tea Room A very delightful luncheon was served the members before the transaction of any business.

President James T. Catlin, Jr., opened the meeting, and Mr. R. R Murray, chairman of the committee, brought up for consideration certain matters calculated to stimulate individual interest in the work of the organization. This meeting was in no sense preparatory to a general membership drive but solely for the purpose of expediting various strictly committee affairs some of which it was decided to place before the board of directors at their next regular meteing.

MR. M'GUIRE'S RESIDENCE UNHARMED BY STORMS

Hunter H McGuire on receiving the condolences of friends who had been misled by an erroneous publication that the roof had been blown from his home in last Friday's storm had to inform them that the report had been greatly exaggerated. His residence is intact and unattacked by the wind which dipped down to the bank of the creek and ripped about 30 feet square of galvanized roof from his slaughter-house. That damage has been repaired and the rains that descend can no more har mthe place than the creek that flows beneath and keeps the abattoir sanitary. Mr. McQuire is still at home to his friends at his home on Wyllie avenue when he is not gathering calf skins at the abattoir.

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

ONLY ONE BALLOON STILL UNACCOUNTED

(By The Associated Press.)

BRUSSELS, June 17.—The winner of the Gordon Bennet cup for 1924 has not yet been determined. The favorite in the great balloon race, Lieut. Ernest de Muyter, piloting the Belgica, has not yet been officially heard from. One report had it that he had been sighted over Ireland, which, if true, would give him the greatest distance.

De Muyter may still be in the air, but the other sixteen contestants which took off from Solbosch plain Sunday have come safely to the earth again. Owing to the unusual atmospheric conditions, the distances credited to the aeronauts, which comprise merely the distances between the starting point and the landing point in a straight line, will not be great, although the balloons in some instances traversed many miles in circuituous voyages. Some of them were becalmed for hours, while the sailing direction of others was completely reversed at times.

The greatest distance recorded tonight by the aero club, and that only an estimate, was allotted to the Ville de Bordeaux, piloted by Laporte, of France—320 kilometers, (about 215 miles); Captain Honeywell, commanding the Uncle Sam, covered, according to the same authority 290 kilometers.

POLICEMAN WINS VERDICT

LYNCHBURG, Va., June 17.—The action of delique in the corporation court of W. G. Morgan, pool room proprietor for possession of a revolver which is alleged was stolen by Policeman H. W. Gilliam, during a raid under a state prohibition warrant, resulted yesterday afternoon in the corporation court here in a verdict by a jury in favor of Gilliam. Gilliam had previously exonerated at a hearing before City Manager Beck.

REHABILITATION IS UNDERWAY IN TENN.

(By The Associated Press.)

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., June 17.—Systematic work, repair and rebuilding are occupying the citizens of Carter County, where Friday's cloudbursts took a toll of a dozen lives, rendered nearly one hundred homeless and destroyed property to the value of about one million dollars.

At Elizabethton, committees are canvassing the city in an effort to raise a fund of five thousand dollars at home for immediate relief, following a survey in which the exact number of houses destroyed has been listed; names and number of the homeless secured, and lists made of those whose farms and crops were destroyed.

Neighboring families are housing those whose homes were destroyed, and in one sparsely settled section, difficult to reach, fifteen persons were found sleeping in a single room. The Red Cross has sent a number of tents, expected to arrive in a few days. There is no pressing need for food and only slight call for clothing, the principal problems being housing and rebuilding.

A telegraph line has been connected through the area to Mountain City, and telephone wires are expected to be operating in a few days. Railroad trains may be able to pass through this week. One train bottled up by the flood, is operating between Mountain City and Fish Springs; another schedule is maintained between Bristol and Elizabethton.

"A Better Home" Means Greater Happiness

The joys of life and the real happiness of living are only known to those who have their own home—where every dollar you put into it remains yours, where there's a garden to putter around with and, perhaps, chickens for the fresh breakfast eggs.

Let us show you how it can be done. Just a small payment at the start and a moderate sum each month——practically no more and sometimes less than you're giving the landlord now. We shall be pleased to discuss this opportunity with you.

The Mutual Building and Loan Association offers you this plan, combining convenience and safety.

Loans are made to members of the Association to buy, build, or remodel homes. The weekly payments cancel the loan when the stock is paid up. Your money stays in Danville and works for you.

As a savings plan Mutual Stock earns 6¼ per cent., net per annum, (free of tax.) Join with us and help "carry on" the good work.

Stock in the Association is sold on weekly, or monthly payments. 25 cents per share per week matures $100.00 in about 6 1-3 years; $2.50 per week matures $1,000.00, etc., etc.

EMBRYO PRESIDENT SEEKING NEW MEXICO GOVERNORSHIP

C. J. Thompson, who some months ago launched his boom for the United States presidency in this city, but who left here somewhat crestfallen when he found that the country had failed to be electrified by the announcement, is still stretching for the higher places. Writing from Albuquerque, New Mexico, the embryo president announces that he is now a full-fledged candidate for the position of governor of that State, seeking the nomination of the "Amalgamated Association of Consolidated Lungers." Existing directories failed to disclose the purposes of thi sorganization and members of the medical profession who were appealed to in the hope of being able to shed some light on this pneumonic assemblage failed to explain it. Rather than undertake any explanation of Mr. Thompson's aims and ideal, The Bee presents to its readers today the text of Mr. Thompson's letter addressed to the editor:

Dear Sir:

I wish to announce to my friends, relatives and acquaintances at Danville and vicinity that I am in the race for Governor of New Mexico, subject to the nomination of the Amalgamated Association of Consolidated Lungers. I myself am a Lunger, duly qualified to hold membership in the above noble order after meeting the requirements laid down by the rules of the order.

At first blush many would say a Lunger had a colossal audacity to make such an announcement, but the fact that I am a member of this order is just why I am getting into the race to protect the other members who come to the State from such calamities as I met with four months after my arrival here—the loss of all my savings thru a bank failure at Alamogordo, New Mexico.

We need at the State house a man with an axe to grind, then he can split banking time down to the proper size; he can hew to the line and let the chips fall where they will.

The present State House father and his legitimate children, the State Banking Department, have sat supinely by and allowed thousands of members of our gallant association to be ruined and broken up through the failure of 66 of the 90 New Mexico banks in one year. I feel that my past business experience and success has fully prepared me to cope with the present intolerable banking situation now existing in the State of New Mexico.

If the Lungers, which is the principal means of the upkeep of the State, will send me to the State house for one term I will not only clean out the crooks from the banks but will see those who are breaking banks and being indicted and then released by a dismissal of the indictments, are prosecuted to the limit of the law.

Well does our gallant society know had some member of our organization been in office during the past term that many who are today penniless and have been turned from law-abiding citizens to hoboes and tramps would now be living in the gay metropolis before the lighlight of civilization progress and modern advancement.

Many who had money in abundance are today beggars through the criminal carelessness of the State Bank Examiner and when a banker or a man with a little money is convicted the present chief executive of the State causes his release.

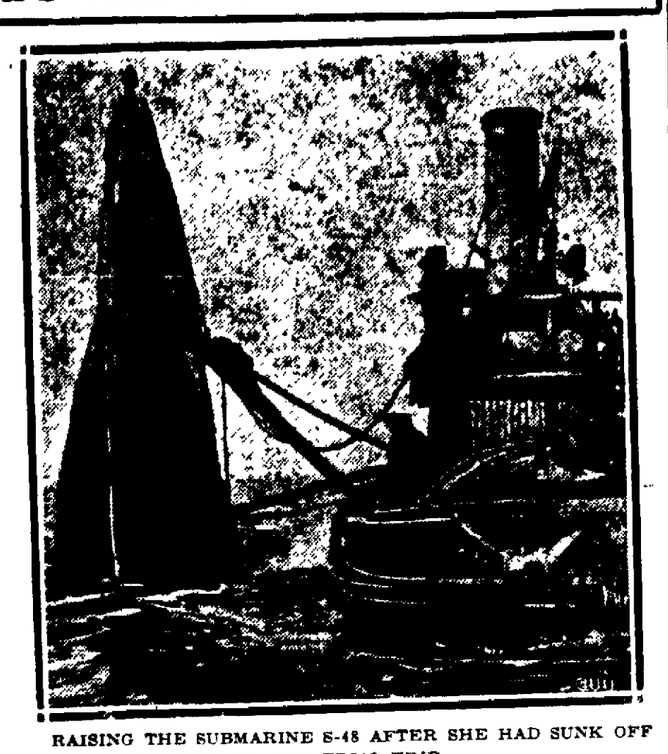

I, therefore, have the audacity, honor and courage to announce myself a candidate for the Governorship of New Mexico, and hope my relatives at Danville will support me in my campaign.

Respectfully,
C J. THOMPSON.

NAVY MISHAPS KILL MORE THAN WAR

THE DESTROYER HULBERT AFTER SHE HAD BEEN RAMMED BY ANOTHER DESTROYER DURING MANEUVERS OFF GUANTANAMO BAY.

RAISING THE SUBMARINE S-48 AFTER SHE HAD SUNK OFF BRIDGEPORT, CONN., ON HER TRIAL TRIP.

THE DISASTER AT POINT HONDA, CALIF., LAST YEAR SEVEN DESTROYERS WERE PILED ON THE ROCKS THROUGH A WRONG CHANGE IN COURSE.

By LARRY BOARDMAN
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—More than twice as many navy men have been killed by accidents since the armistice as died in action on American ships during the war.

For the World War years, 1917 and 1918, the total was 467.

With the disaster on the battleship Mississippi June 12, the post-war toll reached 981.

During the war the navy lost 10 vessels—a cruiser, a gunboat, a submarine, a collier, two destroyers, two trawlers and two yachts.

Since the war it has lost nine—eight destreyers and one tug.

Indeed, peace-time tragedies in the American navy always have been frequent and formidable in proportions, both as to numbers and the amount of damage done.

A list of outstanding accidents for 20 years:

Turret explosion on battleship Missouri, 1904, killed, 31.

Boiler explosion on gunboat Bennington, 1905; killed, 24.

Turret explosion on battleship Kearsarge, 1906; killed, 6.

Turret explosion on battleship Georgia, 1907, killed, 6.

Bursting of boiler tube on cruiser Tennessee, 1908, killed, 5.

Blowout of breech block on cruiser Charleston, 1910; killed, 8.

Boiler explosion on battleship Delaware, 1911; killed, 8.

Ramming of destroyer Woolsey by a shipping board vessel off Panama, 1921; killed, 16.

Loss of naval tug Conestoga in the Pacific, 1921; drowned, 43.

Point Honda disaster, 1923, in which, through a wrong change in his course, the commander of a destroyer squadron piled seven vessels on the rocks of the southern California coast; death roll, 22.

Turret explosion on battleship Missouri, 1924; killed, 48.

QUERY: What, if anything, is the matter with the American navy? Why are accidents so numerous? Faulty construction, or material? Or carelessness, or deficient training, on the part of personnel?

The answer, as responsible Navy Department officials give it, is this:

"Of course there is a specific cause for every accident. A court of inquiry may put the blame either upon material or personnel. But the very officials who fix the blame know there simply must be a slip once in a while."

As for the Mississippi disaster, the prevailing belief in naval circles is that compressed air failed to clean out the bore of the exploding gun—a bit of smouldering waste remained in the barrel and ignited the powder charge prematurely.

YOUTH ADMITS KILLING WOMAN THREE YEARS AGO

(Special to The Bee.)

WENTWORTH, N. C., June 18.—Palmer Mulwe, aged 18, arrested a few days ago in Keystone, W. Va., for the murder on March 26th, 1921, of Mrs. Guy Sullivan, was lodged in jail here yesterday by Chief of Police Vernon, of Leaksville-Spray. According to Vernon, Mulwe has confessed the killing and has given to the officer the full details of the crime. To Vernon goes the credit of bringing about the arrest of the alleged slayer for it was he who secured the first intimation of the man's whereabouts thru a negro living at Reidsville.

Mulwe is described as having given himself away. At Keystone, he indulged in too much talking in the presence of the Reidsville negro who remains unidentified. The colored man wrote the substance of Mulwe's conversation which related to the shooting of a woman at Madison, N. C., and it was comparatively easy for Vernon to identify the victim as Mrs. Guy Sullivan. Nobody saw the murder and but for Mulwe's loquaciousness, it would have remained one of those unsolved mysteries.

Chief Vernon declares that Mulwe made a voluntary confession as he was being brought back to North Carolina. The youth said that he was a hobo and that on the day of the killing tired and hungry he went to the Sullivan home, when Mrs Sullivan was there alone. He says he asked for something to eat but was refused. Then, he is quoted as having said, he asked Mrs. Sullivan for fifty cents whereupon, he charges, Mrs. Sullivan became abusive and called him a "tramp" and ordered him away. An angered exchange took place and Mulse says he drew his pistol and shot her, claiming that the woman made a move as though she was about to produce a weapon. Four bullets were fired into the body. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan's children returning from home, came across the dead body of their mother some distance from the house in some woods. They raced home and revealed the horrifying truth to their father. Not a clue could be found to the perpetrator of the crime. No one had seen Mulwe approach the house and every effort made to learn the identity failed. The quest was finally given up. Then came the note from the Reidsville negro, purporting to give the gist of a conversation attributed to Palmer Mulwe. The date of the crime, its location and the circumstances made it apparent that Mulwe was the man who had killed Mrs Sullivan. Chief Vernon notified the Keystone authorities and they found Mulwe and arrested him.

The youth admitted that he was a hobo. His home is near Charlestonville, at a little flag station on the Chesapeake & Ohio railway. The accused youth is quoted as saying that he remained in hiding for three days in the neighborhood of Madison then he caught a freight train and made his way to Roanoke. He went to Baltimore where he stayed some time and then returned to Petersburg. He had been in West Virginia for several months.

The coroner's jury which sat at the time Mrs. Sullivan was killed will be recalled, the authorities said this morning and in the light of new evidence will amend its verdict thus paving the way for the bringing of Mulwe to trial at the next term of court.

South Boston

(Special to The Bee)

SOUTH BOSTON, Va., June 18.—A popular South Boston belle entered Doc Fences' drug store the other day and, seating herself at one the tables, placed an order for her favorite thirst quencher. She wore one of the niftiest little wrist watches imaginable, and the loafers in the drug store began to give their opinions as to how many jewels it contained and as to whether the case was solid gold or twenty-vear plate. But when she opened the watch, instead of looking to see what time it was, she extracted a dainty powder puff and began to powder her nose.

Personals.

Miss Ellie Glascock has gone to Durham, N. C., where she will take the summer course at Trinity College.

James Yancey is attending the summer school at the University of Virginia.

Miss Dorothy Webb, who is a student at Hollins College, is here for the summer months.

Miss Annie Lee Gentry, who is a student at the North Caarolina State Normal at Greensboro, has returned to her home here.

Mrs. A. B. Pendleton and J. C. Harris are spending the day in Danville, where they are the guest of Mrs. T A. Fulton.

Royal Sands, of Reidsville, was the week-end guest of friends at South Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skinner, of Durham, N. C., were the week-end guests of Mrs. J W. Easley.

Fred Arvon and Miss Ivy Bruce, of Meherrin, were the guests of Mrs. R. T Jeter, on Broad street, Monday.

Mrs. S. W. Spencer and little daughter, Lillian, have returned to their home at Meherrin, after spending several days as the guests of Mrs. R T. Jeter, on Broad street.

Shep Johnson and R. H. Dowdy have returned to their homes after a motor trip to Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Currin and family motored to Durham, N. C., yesterday evening.

Emmett Scribner, of Charlottesville, is visiting Waldren Nichols on Jefferson street.

Miss Baanie Waalden, of Norton, has returned to her home on Irish street, after teaching at Norton during the past year.

Back From Texas.

J. O. Watkins returned to South Boston Saturday, after spending a week in Houston, Texas. Mr. Watkins reports that the Texas city has enjoyed a phenomenal growth during the past nineteen years. Among the new buildings recently completed is the Cotton Exchange, which was erected at a cost of two and one-half million dollars. The climate is so nearly even all the year round that fresh vegetables are sold on the Houston market for twelve months in the year. A canal has been opened up fro mthe Gulf of Mexico so the heavy ocean freight liners can now come within two miles of Houston. The passenger liners dock at Houston and it is possible to board a ship for London and other European ports. Business conditions are much better than they are in this section of the country, and the prospects are unusually good for bumper crops of rice, sugar cane and corn.

School Plans Are Awarded Local Man

The contract for the drawing of plans for the three new schools provided in the building programme of the city schoolboard will be awarded to Heard and Chesterman it was learned this morning, the minutes of the last schoolboard meeting showing that a motion embracing this project being offered by H. E. Phillips. It had been understood that the moot point of authorship of the plans would be deferred but such appears not to be the case, the board being on record 5 to 4 in favor of the local firm being charged with preparation of the plans provided he associates himself with a school architect of recognized ability.

Mr. Phillips when questioned this morning confirmed the action of the schoolboard. He stated that after a lengthy discussion of this matter Trustee T S Williamson offered as a motion that the local architects be awarded the plans for Westmoreland, colored school, the necessity of a new building before the next session being so compelling that he thought action should be taken regardless of the bond issue's fate also that the rearrangement of Bellevue school be undertaken. This motion was carried. Mr Phillips then expressed the view that the whole building programme should be gone into and that definite steps be taken looking to the preparation of plans for the Junior High school and the new school at Bellevue should be taken. His motion was that the local architects should be employed and, he states, this motion was carried five votes to four.

A good deal of interest has been evidenced in the plans for the schoolwork here both by local and out of town architects.

MOTOR LADDER FOR FIRE DEP'T. IS AT STATION

The new seventeen thousand pound safety extension ladder ordered by the city several months ago at a cost of $14,500, arrived in the yards of the Southern Railway this morning, crated on two cars, the fore part being enclosed in a box car and the rear part, firmly lodged on a flat car.

Fire Chief Lewis Mitchell this morning received the bill of lading and at once notified the city purchasing agent who wired the Seagrave Company, at Columbus, Ohio, to this effect. Chief Mitchell stated that the new engine would not be touched by the local fire fighting force and that the task of unloading it would devolve on representatives of the company. The city will not possess the handsome and powerful machine until it has been tuned up, tried out, subjected to requisite tests and officially accepted by the public works committee of the city council.

Under the terms of the contract, the old Hayes truck will be taken over by the Seagraves Company and Danville people will have to say goodby to the last link between horse-drawn and motor-driven fire apparatus. The Hayes truck has been in service for twenty-eight years and has never answered calls other than those in the business section of the town because of its great weight and the strain on the two powerful blacks in negotiating Main street and Patton street hills. It was put in service in 1896 when W. T. Swann was chairman of the fire committee, the other members being W. W. Waddill, D. J. Holcombe, and N. F. Reid, fire chief.

Fire Chief Mitchell said this morning that no disposition has yet been made of the two horses which will no longer be of service to the fire department with the arrival of the new motor ladder. The committee which will have the final determination of this question is understood to favor placing the two horses at Ballou Park where they may perform light service and be rewarded by an easy life for the service they have performed. Both horses are growing old but are in good condition. Much of the mettlesome spirit they showed when the gong tapped in the fire station and when the catches flew up opening the doors of their stalls has gone with advancing age. That was in the day when all fire department horses were trained to trot out to their positions on the tap of the gong, instinctively sensed the emergency and pawed the ground for the getaway in the hustle and excitement of the call.

The new apparatus was ordered because it was realized that the old Hayes truck was dangerous and could be raised only with difficulty and not without danger to the men handling it.

Col. John Cutchins to Make Address

The meeting of the Danville post American Legion on Friday night will be featured by the appearance of Col. John A Cutchins, of Richmond who will deliver an illustrated lecture on a war theme and also touching on the American Legion. The plan is to have the meeting at Ballou Park and to invite the public to the meeting, especially members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Col. Cutchins wrote the history of the 29th Division and during the war was on General Pershing's staff. He represented the United States on the Inter-Allied Permanent Peace conference and has been decorated by the French, British and Italian governments. He is the Chef de Gare of the Virginia "Forty and Eight" of blessed memory and intends to be present at the coming state convention to be held here.

Tentative plans are being made for a few exhibition boxing bouts before the public address by Col Cutchins.

Other matters to be taken up at Friday's meeting will be steps looking to assisting legionnaires to secure their insurance certificates.

JAPAN SURE OF ISSUES WITH U. S. BEING SETTLED

Hanihara, in Speech, Emphasizes Friendship Between Two Nations.

(By The Associated Press.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I. June 18.—Japan, in its dealings with the United States, has always believed that as between friends there is no question that caannot be adjusted amicably, Ambassador Hanihara of Japan, declared today in an address at Brown University, where he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

With "such unique and precious history" back of American-Japanese friendship, he said, "the one great question in the minds of my people now is: Is it the true sentiment of the American people to make light of its friendship with the people of Jaapan, a friendship which has been built up by hard, conscientious labor of the two peoples extending over nearly three quarters of a century, not only to the good of themselves alone, but for the good of the rest of mankind."

The Japanese ambassador sketched the history of relations of the two nations from when Commodore Perry set foot on the shores of Japan to the signing of the Washington conference treaties. He refrained from any specific mention of the immigration law, with its Japanese exclusion provision.

"If I fail t oexpress myself adequately," he said, "it is not because of any lack of appreciation of your good will, but solely on account of the unfortunate limitations I am under in the use of the English language.

"It is indeed," he said, "a blessing to feel that one is among trusted friends to whom he may open his heart without fear of being misunderstood."

After thanking Brown University and the people of Rhode Island for the compliment bestowed upon him, which, he said, was an assurance of good will and friendship, the ambassador began at once his outline of the long friendship between the two countries.

"And I may express the hope," he said, "that the friendship may survive. It will survive, if we remain true to our worthy traditions of the past, which is an embodiment of that great human spirit of mutual toleration and esteem."

At another point, after relating Japan's efforts to become a bulwark of peace in the far east, he said: "We Japanese have tried to become a great nation, not only in the attainment of strength sufficient to defend ourselves and protect our weaker neighbors from dangerous aggressions, but also we have striven to be great because we are anxious to service the cause of humanity. We have been sincerely proud to serve with the great nations of the west and we shall continue to serve as long as those nations will permit us to do so."

He paid high tribute to the many ambassadors and ministers who have represented the United States in Japan and to hundreds of other Americans who have played prominent parts in the history of modern Japan.

"We are and have been for years, your greatest customer on the Pacific, overwhelmingly so, and the United States is the greatest market for our products. We say nothing that could mar these happy and mutually beneficial relations until after the Russian war, when certain evil forces began to work against the two countries. Fortunately, however, wise people on both sides of the Pacific were not slow in realizing the effect of this sinister effort and spared no effort for its removal.

"The task was not easy, but we kept patience. At last, at the Washington conference of a little over two years ago, in which one of Browns worthy sons—Charles Evans Hughes.—played the leading role so successfully this unhappy symptom of international discord was entirely removed and the relations between America and Japan were restored to their old level of happy and glorious friendship.

"Such has been, in brief, the history of our relations, which were made immeasurably closer by the generous act o fsympathy on the part of the American people at the time of our great calamity of last September."

FUNERAL OF AN INFANT

The funeral of little Peggy Jackson, young daughter of Mr and Mrs M. B. Jackson, who died Sunday night after a short illness, was conducted from the home, 532 Floyd street, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev S J Battin. Interment was made in Mountain View cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Tony Benazzi, Willie Benazzi, Romeda Benazzi and Joe Benazzi brothers.

The flower bearers were Misses Nettie Clifton, Opie Gourd, Marie Jackson, Muriel Jackson, Clarisse Gourd, Virginia Scott, Bobbie Skinner, Ola Clark, Virginia Obey, C G Holt, H W Skinner, Calvin Smith, Fred Anderson, G W. Bohbitt, E R Bush and B A. Cook.

Barksdale to Preside Here at July Term

Judge William R Barksdale, of Halifax, judge of the Sixth Virginia Circuit, has been designated by Governor Trinkle, to preside at the criminal term of the Corporation court which will open here on July 7th. Judge Withers will be away and the governor was recently ask to make provision.

The appointment is of peculiar interest in that the contest over the mayoralty election which is expected to develop will come up before Judge Barksdale, veteran Virginia jurist. Judge Barksdale's commission has already been received by the clerk of the court. Two other judges have held court here since Judge Withers' illiness, Judge Richard S Ker, of Staunton, and Judge J. L. McLemore, of Suffolk.

VIRGINIA FIREMAN GIVES FACTS TO THE PUBLIC

Tells How Tanlac Restored His Strength and Lost Weight.

"If I ever get in a run-down condition again, I'll know just what to do—go straight for Tanlac," recently said J Kundert, 1027 24th St., Newport News, Va., popular member of the Newport News fire department.

"Some years ago, stomach trouble pulled me down till I was in an alarming condition. Everything I ate caused indigestion, my nerves were so bad I couldn't sleep night, and my weight and strength kept ebbing away until I felt no accougt nearly all the time.

"My mother, in Los Angeles, wrote me about Tanlac and the very first bottle started my digestive machinery to humming. When I finished my seventh bottle, I was eating like a house afire and my stomach and nerves felt like new. I got back all my lost weight, too, and my whole system was built up to the same fine condition it's still in. Ye, sir, I have a world of confidence in Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

New Pep for the Zero Hour

IF YOU feel "let down" around 11 o'clock, drink tea. It's a quick-acting stimulant, but absolutely harmless. This is because tea is rich in vitamines—Nature's re-vitalizers.

It cools you off, soothes tired nerves, and gives you new vigor. Your thirst is quenched at once, and deliciously. You feel better immediately.

Drink tea in the morning, and again with your luncheon. Drink it in the afternoon, and with your evening meal. It will help you round out the day in good shape. You will be steadily cool and comfortable.

The best "tea insurance" is the Maxwell House brand. This is what critical housewives say—those who are most particular about what they buy, and drink, and serve. No matter what your tea taste, Maxwell House will please you. Maxwell House is quality insurance.

Good to the last Drop

For sale at all the best grocery stores, in two-ounce, quarter-pound, half-pound and pound tins. Also in individual tea balls—250 and 500 to a carton.

EVIDENCE GIVEN IN THE CASE OF FRANK M'DOWEL

(By The Associated Press)

CLEARWATER Fla June 18 — The second trial of Frank McDowell on a murder charge was resumed in Pinellas County Circuit court here today A jury to hear the evidence that May send the 19-year-old boy to the electric chair or to the insane asylum was completed late yesterday.

That the defense again will rest entirely on an insanity plea was indicated by questions propopnded by the McDowell counsel It was equally apparent that the state, in this trial will insist on the death penalty for the youth who is being tried on the specific charge of killing his mother at St Petersburg last February when he also shot his father to death

Twenty witnesses were sworn for the state The number that will appear for the defense was not stated

W L Stone a neighbor of the McDowell's in St Petersburg was the first called by the state He described the condition of Mrs McDowell's body when he went to the home of the McDowell's at the urgent request of Frank about 1 a m There were nine bullet wounds in her head the witness said

The boy came to his home across the street Stone stated and knocked on the side door. He, stone, came out and asked what was the matter. The boy replied with a blow on the head

Stone testified McDowell declared a few years ago that he would some day shoot his father to death as Dewey Gaskins had done in the world. If he had only left one

The witness told of finding the rear shaved, but ghost note between the bodies The note was read to the jury by the state It closed with the Lord's Prayer

C O W Jensen St Petersburg motorcycle police officer and Judge Swope as a coroner of the city visited the home of the McDowells and testified before him and the state rested its case in front of the murder of his parents.

The latter testified to which also described the position of the two bodies in Dewey Gaskins' home when he arrived. He identified as evidence the pistol and other articles of clothing and the bullets which were shown to have killed

TURN OUT YOUR OWN DRESS IN AN HOUR

SOME OF THE ONE-HOUR DRESSES CREATED BY MISS GERTRUDE BARNETT OF SAN FRANCISCO
By NEA Service

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Woman's immemorial excuse of "but I have nothing to wear" is out of date with the advent of one-hour dresses

They are the handiwork of Miss Gertrude Barnett of this city and can be created in one hour from yard cloth, including measurements and fittings in that time

Miss Lena Tognoli, at the left of the picture, wears an evening dress of satin trimmed with ostrich feathers

Miss Mildred Mooney, center, wears a street dress made from three yards of Scotch silk and three yards of two-tone ribbon.

The other gown, worn by Miss Lucy Varney, is an afternoon dress, all over silk with a frill of organdy down the front.

Each of the creations was completed by Miss Barnett in an hour, and are so simple, according to their inventor, that any woman, at all handy with a needle, can finish them in as short a time.

A popular feminine alibi is blasted with this new feat of dressmaking speed

"I have nothing to wear" won't do. The rejoinder will be, "but you can make something in an hour."

BLOC DELEGATES ARE FACED WITH MONEY TROUBLE

Convention Begins Work in Uncertain State of Mind Today

(By The Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL Minn, June 18 — Aroused by yesterday's "misunderstanding," Wm. Mahoney, of St Paul, leader of the conservative faction in the national farmer-labor progressive convention, declared as the convention convened today that delegates from South Dakota, Washington Nebraska, Montana and Minnesota had assured him they "would be on their guard against a recurrence of yesterday's communist successes"

Mahoney was named as the Minnesota member of the organization committee, where he determined to fight for his decentralized national organization plan. This movement is opposed by the communists who would have a highly centralized national party

C A. Hathaway, of St. aul, who in the pre-convention committee fight helped the communists disrupt parliamentary organization plans by blocking Mahoney's majority report, was named on the nominations committee by the Minnesota caucus

(By The Associated Press.)

ST PAUL, Minn., June 18.—Faced with the financial troubles coming on top of a communistic victory yesterday in the first open skirmish of the gathering, delegates to the national Farmer-Labor progressive convention today began work in an uncertain state of mind.

Charles E Taylor, state senator from Montana who was elected permanent chairman of the convention yesterday said he had no definite program in mind for today aside from the selection of standing committees and his own formal speech as permanent chairman.

The convention, he indicated, would be at a standstill until the committee on party organization was ready to report, with speech-making employed to fill the interval with Alice Lorraine Daly, the first woman candidate for governor in South Dakota as headliner Miss Daly was elected secretary of the convention by acclamation yesterday on motion of Joseph Manley Illinois delegates from the workers party and acknowledged spokesman in the convention for Wm Z Foster, American representative for the Moscow international

Senator Magnus Johnson had been tentatively proposed as a speaking guest of the convention by Wm Mahoney, temporary chairman, but the partial success of the communists made his appearance before the convention doubtful

Financial troubles arose from the unwillingness of St Paul civic organizations to guarantee the $150 daily rental for the convention hall in the municipal auditorium if the extremists controlled the action of the convention If is customary here for the St Paul Association of Public and Business Affairs to assume this burden for national conventions News of the possible withdrawal of the guarantee from the present convention last night reached C E Bassett manager of the municipal auditorium and he there upon announced that unless three days rental was forthcoming he would bar the convention from the hall Mahoney announced he would be responsible for any portion of the rent not assumed by the association

THE BODY OF MISSING ROANOKE MAN FOUND

(By The Associated Press.)

ROANOKE, Va., June 17.—The body of Charles H. Zirkle, missing since June 2, was found this morning thrown across the mound of earth that marks his mother's grave in the Zirkle family burying ground near Cave Springs in Roanoke county In his right hand was clutched a 32 calibre revolver and a bullet hole in his temple indicated that he had met death at his own hands

The report of the inquest held by Dr G. A. L. Kolmer, county coroner, who was summoned upon discovery of the body, stated that there was no evidence to indicate foul play of any kind and that the case was plainly one of self-destruction.

Identification of the body, which was in an advanced stake of decomposition, was established by John Zirkle, of Back Creek, brother of the dead man, who recognized him by his clothing. After the coroner arrived, a receipt bearing the name of C. H. Zirkle was found in his coat pocket.

The body, for which searching parties have been hunting for the past week, was located by W A. Dyer of Cave Springs who was plowing in a field adjacent to the cemetery when he made the discovery.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE THE SECRET DRAWER

My, it seems good to get home again. I wonder if you have missed me, dear little Marquise? I was so glad to get back and find that mother Prescott had not found your secret drawer, that is so full of my confidences now instead of yours.

The last day of my stay in New York was rather unhappy.

Alice acted like a petulant child. It seems that when I elected to stay at home and not go with the family to the opera on the evening before my departure, Karl was much disappointed. He seemed to think that as it was our last evening in New York I should not stay away from his party, which I found out afterward he had planned on a magnificent scale, beginning with a box at the Metropolitan Opera House, and ending with a gorgeous supper and dancing at the Little Club.

"He acted as though you were the guest of honor, Les," Alice said.

"Well, wasn't she?" asked mother quietly, who was standing by. "I cannot understand you, Alice, since you returned from England You know you cannot always be the center of attraction. I have felt often since we have been staying here in New York that had I been Karl I would have boxed your ears"

Alice looked at mother disgustedly and flounced out of the room.

"I am afraid we left Alice too long in nEngland alone, Leslie Karl has evidently spoiled her. She expects him to be at her beck and call every minute.

"I have found that she is put out if Karl is even filially devoted to me. Last night at the opera she wore a new string of pearls. Karl put them on her just before we left. It was a magnificant gift and any other girl would have been wild with delight, but what do you think she said?

"She turned from the mirror where she had been looking at them around her throat and exclaimed, with a disappointed frown 'I don t think they are as pretty as Leslie's'

"'What do you mean?' I asked 'You know Leslie's necklace is only a string of imitation beads. You gave it to her yourself.'

"She didn't deign to answer but took Karl's arm and preceded us to the motor."

Oh, little Marquise, I wish I hadn't promised Karl not to tell If I had not I would then and there have told mother the whole story.

I am going to put those pearls in the little secret drawer here and keep them out of my sight for a long time.

It is a strange thing that while I have been perfectly innocent in this matter those ill-fated gems have made me unhappy ever since my marriage, and now because I foolishly told Karl I would keep them I can't even tell Jack about them As Ruth says, Jack might forgive me the pearls because he would realize that at first I did not know they were real, but he would never forgive me for letting Karl pay $15,000 to keep the string intact.

As it is, I have just got to sit tight and hope for the best.

VICTIM OF FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT MUCH IMPROVED

(By The Associated Press.)

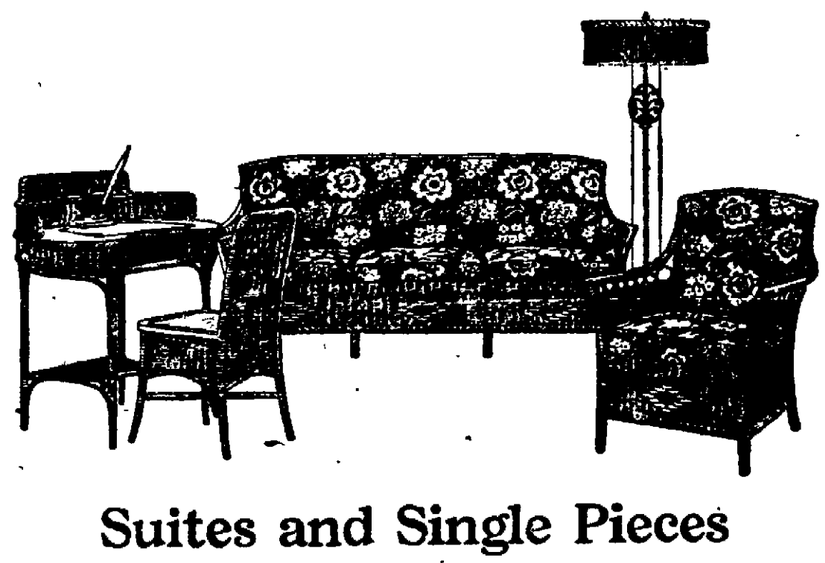

PETERSBURG, Va., June 17.—Stanley Kahn, of Raleigh, N. C., who was injured yesterday morning in the accident on the Petersburg-Richmond turnpike which cost the lives of two men and one woman, was reported as considerably improved at the Petersburg hospital today. It was stated that x-ray examination failed to disclose the fractured skull he was believed to have suffered and no internal injuries have been located. Though still under treatment it is likely that he will be discharged from the hospital in the near future.

Mr. Kahn occupied the front seat of the car with Gerson Heller and Morrison Rosenthal of Raleigh, both of whom were killed almost instantly. Mrs. Amelia Heller, of Richmond, the mother of Heller, also Hutzler of Richmond escaped with slight injuries and after treatment at the hospital yesterday returned to her home.

"Beam" May Junk Radio Good Today

LONDON, June 18.— All present radio equipment, including both the transmitting and receiving apparatus, may be classfied as junk if the directional radio beam invented by Senator Marconi, the Italian radio engineer, comes into use.

This is the belief of electrical engineers who have seen the marvelous results of experiments conducted here with the Marconi beam.

In a recent test, signals were successfully flashed between Cornwall, England, and Sydney, Australia. The voice was diitsnctly heard when transmitted along the beam, yet it was not broadcast, except along the straight line of the beam.

Short Life

Present radio apparatus is given five years to live by some of the radio engineers connected with the development o fthe Marconi beam system. By this method, they point out, the transmitted voice would be semi-secret, confned at most of the stations within the line of the beam.

At the same time the low wavelengths, which will be the basis of the new system, will enable stations to transmit during daylight without being annoyed much by tsatic.

Outdoor aerials will be almost unnecessary, radio apparatus will become standardized to the transmission and reception of certain beams and wavelengths, fading will be eliminated, spark interference subdued and broadcasting in general will be revolutionized.

Over the World

Some of the engineers foresee a nation-wide, if not a world-wide, system of relaying broadcast programs by the beam system. The signals will be carried on wavelengths of about 15 or 29 meteras, on extremely nigh frequencies.

They will be shot out direct to another broadcast station, which may in turn beam-broadcast to a third, or may transmit the program it receives as the stations do now, by the circular broadcast system.

Thus, with practically all present difficulties overcome, every part of the earth may be covered by radio through this system.

MOSTLY CRYSTAL SETS

Sixty-five per cent. of the receivers in England are crystal sets, reports the British Broadcasting Company. Of the rest, 7 per cent., have one tube, 12 per cent., two tubes and only 2 per cent three tubes.

TODAY'S Washington LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A new national movie star is to be featured on the screen of American theaters this summer.

He's no handsome matinee idol. Neither is he a stalwart, dashing figure from the plains.

The role in which he will be cast is neither one of love nor of adventure. Instead, he will picture the part of the quiet, plodding, earnest, every-day sort of individual—the serious-minded, conscientious, undramatic life of the average American who recognizes that to live is to labor and who accepts the burdens of existence without protest, seeking to solve his own problems for himself, not asking that society solve them for him.

* * *

Perhaps you've already guessed his identity. Yes; this new star to be featured in the films is none other than Calvin Coolidge, the "calm and courageous candidate of the Cleveland convention!"

Coolidge's campaign managers intend that every movie-goer in the United States shall feel a personal acquaintance with, and interest in, their candidate before election day next November.

They believe that his "New England face" and his "New England qualities" as they can be portrayed in the movies, will be a tremendous asset in assisting his election.

His very grimness, his Puritanic severity and his disregard of, if not his actual contempt for, the pleasures and the sofe things of life, as they will be presented through the movies, are expected to kindle a feeling that he represents a return to the type of Americanism and ideals on which this nation was founded.

And this appeal, his backers believe, will be far more effective in winning support from the great mass of movie-going voters than any other sore of claim that can be made for any other candidate.

* * *

No such elaborate program of press-agenting ever was built up to popularize a theatrical star as is planned to "get across" the character of Coolidge.

The effort is to be to create a "Coolidge tradition," the effect of which will be to endow him, in the popular mind, with all the wisdom and virtues associated in the minds of Americans generally with the New England forefathers.

The opposition, naturally, expects to picture this "Coolidge tradition" as a "Coolidge myth," but they realize it will be one of the most difficult impression sto counteract.

* * *

This widespread and intensive picturization of Coolidge was part of the consideration that entered into the permission given the four news reel movie concerns to set up Kleig lights and make movies of the proceedings inside the Republican National Convention.

The old powers that were in the G. O. P., headed by John T. Adams and George Lockwood in the arrangements for the convention, frowned on the proposala to make movies of the convention show. It wouldn't be decorous and dignified, they held.

Working together, through a representative speaking for the four news reels—Pathe, Fox, Kinograms and International—the matter was put directly to the Coolidge management.

"Unless we get these pictures, we will not turn a crank in photographing Coolidge for the campaign," they threatened.

That threat was enough. Adams et al., were overruled. The pictures were made.

And from now on the Coolidge countenance is to bes made a part of virtually every reel of "news" films issued until after next November 4.

RADIO TABS

RELAY ON SHORT WAVES

Ordinary methods of relaying programs from special places, such as churches and lecture halls, require the use of direct telephone lines. Station WOY, Schenectady, has a portable short wave transmitter which it installs in the churches, theaters and concert halls to relay their programs by short-wave channels instead of wires.

CAMELS LOSE TO AUTOS

The ancient "ship of the desert" is becoming modern rod. Autos are replacing camels. There's an auto route across the Syrian desert from Haifa and Beirut to Bagdad, and plans are made to extend this route on to Teheran, Persia, a distance equal to that between New York and Detroit.

"WORIORS" FROM WOR

Station WOR, Newark, N. J., has started a team of "Woriors" on the radio-path. It's the term given a group of artists who will broadcast musical and vocal selections from that station hereafter.

RADIO NEWS GATHERERS

Radio amateurs have had a chance to demonstrate the reliability of this science as a news gathering medium. Some of them have been collecting news for the Milwaukee Journal.

RADIO FOR POLICE

Now the Detroit police have three automobilese quipped with receiving apparatus, so that they may be in constant touch with headquarters. Detroit has its own polic ebroadcasting station, KOP.

TAYLOR NAMED CHAIRMAN PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION

(By The Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—Charles E. Taylor, of Montana, was elected permanent chairman of the Farmer-Labor progressive convention here today receiving 718 votes. William Mahoney, of St. Paul, the temporary chairman, received 116 votes and A. L. Putnam, of South Dakota, 14 votes.

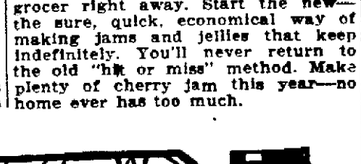

Duncan McDonald of Illinois, was elected vice chairman of the convention by acclamation.

Additional permanent officers elected were Alive Lorraine Daly, Mitchell, S. D., secretary and Otto Wangerin, St. Paul, and Mrs. Jessie Bullock Kestner, South Tacoma, Washington, assistant secretaries.

After a lengthy wrangle over procedure, the convention adjourned at 6:30 p. m. until tomorrow morning.

Delicious Cherry Jam Easily Made In 20 Minutes

"New Certo Method Never Fails, Costs Less and Makes Better Quality"—Ann Proctor

Everyone loves cherry jam. For a spread on bread or hot biscuits, nothing seems to equal it. Its wonderful flavro makes children of us all. Until now, however, an expert was required to make it, and it has been expensive. CERTO, the natural "jell" making property of fruit, has solved the problm so that everyone can make and eat a lot of this delicious preserve.

To make cherry jam by the quick and easy CERTO method, follow this simple recipe:

Sour cherries give finest flavor. Pit and crush well about 2 1-2 lbs. fruit. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.,) pitted and crushed cherries into large kettle and add 1-4 cup water. Tie 3 tablespoons pits in cloth and crush with hammer. Place with cherries to increase flavor, stir until boiling, cover kettle, simmer 10 minutes, then remove pits. Add 7 1-2 level cups (3 1-4 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute remove from fire and stir in 1 bottle (scant cup) CERTO. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes, by the clock, before pouring In the meantime skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly.

The above recipe and nearly 100 other Jams, Jellies and Marmalades are in the CERTO Book of Recipes which is enclosed with every bottle of CERTO.

This CERTO process banishes all the guess work or worry as perfect results are certain with an available fruit when a simple recipe is followed. Unlike the old method "pound for pound" mixtures boiled for thirty or more minutes, with considerable juice, color and flavor of the fruit being boiled away, the economical CERTO method requires only one minute's boiling and thereby saves the juice to make one-half more jam. That's the only reason why more sugar is used with CERTO.

CERTO is a pure fruit product—contains no gelatine or preservative. CERTO positively saves time, fruit, flavor and guess work. It makes all kinds of jams and jellies—some you have never tasted before. CERTO is highly endorsed by national authorities and local cooking experts. Every woman who tries to recommend it to her friends and says she'll never be without it. Over seven million bottles were used last year.

Get a bottle of CERTO from your grocer right away. Start the new—the sure, quick, economical way of making jams and jellies that keep indefinitely. You'll never return to the old "hit or miss" method. Make plenty of cherry jam this year—no home ever has too much.

Dry Cleaning Done Scientifically

WHEN we use the word "scientifically" we say it advisedly. Years of experience has taught us the right method, the best and safest.

Particularly is it necessary in the cleansing of women's summer garments—for most of them are delicate in fabric and require extreme care.

Just a trial is all we ask. Our trucks make the rounds daily.

Ask about the gas range and refrigerator to be given away July 1st.

THE PLAYGROUND PROBLEM

—o—

To the small boy in the city—and to his small sister, too, for that matter—the time "when a feller needs a friend" is almost any time.

For in spite of everything cities can do to increase the number of playgrounds—and no city has enough of them—the poor little city child, that is the really young child, doesn't have half a chance when it comes to finding an open space where he can play in safety and comfort.

The streets? It is dinned into his ears day in and day out that he must keep out of the streets. They belong to the great god traffic

The alleys? Youthful pilots of delivery trucks make of them a speedway. It is essential, furthermore, that they be used by owners of rear-entrance garages. "You mustn't play in the alleys!"

The sidewalks? They belong by right to the pedestrian, a right disputed daily by older children on speeding bicycles.

There remain the backyard and the front lawn—in sections where they exist.

So what domain is there where the King of Play may entertain his childish subjects? And why should it be wondered at if such items as this appear day after day in the newspapers:

A lost boy, about three or four years old, is being held by the police, who are trying to ascertain where he lives. It is believed he wandered away from home.

Wandered away, perhaps, at the beck of childhood imaginings that surely in a city so big and so rich there must be a place to play.

Danville has long been in need of adequate recreational facilities. They have been frequently discussed and at times discussions have almost led to realization of definite projects but they have usually gone awry in the final stages of development. Green Street Park is the only recreational area worthy of the name in Danville and that serves only a limited neighborhood. Ballou Park with its shady acres is too far from the center of population to be useful. But there are better days coming and there is evidence of an awakening here to the playground need. The $350,000 to be made available for schools will enable the development of school playgrounds and the school board is already commited to utilization of at least part of the sum for that purpose Then again we have Camp Ro-Ki-Ki which today becomes available for young boys as a recreational center at the same time offering them the opportunity of bodily vigor which comes only from life in the outdoors. True it is not a playground in the sense of being a safe place for toddlers to play, but it is a step in the right direction It shows that the seed is taking root and that a community want is in a fair way to be relieved.

BEYOND THE LUXURY STAGE

—o—

To those who are at the heart of the motor vehicle industry the periodical rumor of trade depression is always a surprise The rumor itself is based on the fallacy that the motor vehicle as a luxury and therefore enjoys an uncertain sale, rising with prosperity born of other activities falling when incomes are curtailed by business or industrial conditions elsewhere.

Those who have studied the motor vehicle industry know that the strength of its growth lies not only in the amazing speed with which it has developed but in the steady and consistent advance in consumption of production

This consistent growth is based simply on the fact that the motor vehicle is not a luxury at all, but an approved and necessary factor in the transportation problem which itself is the foundation of the country's welfare. If by some improbable cataclysm all transportation could vanish overnight, the nation would starve, its commercial as well as industrial activities would plunge into bankruptcy and wretchedness of the worst kind would annihilate the people.

Transportation is the key to the nation's business, which is its life. And this transportation includes, in the most comprehensive manner, rail, road and waterway. The flexibility of the motor vehicle, its economy, its speed all have made it the favored medium and its increased use is limited only by the development of highways to care for the traffic. There is nothing abnormal or surprising in the volume of business the motor vehicle represents when its real basis is understood. It has become a necessity whose uses increase with each improvement which extends its availability. It cannot collapse unless the nation ceases from doing its business, a suicide no one is hare-brained enough to anticipate.

CITIZENSHIP FOR INDIANS

—o—

There will be general approval of the law enacted by Congress at the session recently ended which conferred American citizenship on every Indian born within the territorial limits of the United States. According to Charles H. Burke, commissioner of Indian affairs, the new act gives the ballot to 125,000 Indians. Various acts of Congress had previously granted citizenship to 20,000.

It may be that among the new citizens are some who by reason of lack of education are hardly qualified to vote intelligently, but they certainly cannot be less qualified than some of the native white and negro citizens. So long as whites and negroes became citizens automatically by virtue of being born in this country, and by virtue of that alone, it was unfair to discriminate against the red men.

It is interesting to note that the granting of citizenship does not remove the restrictions on the land of Indians now under government guardianship, the United States Supreme court having held that wardship is not inconsistent with citizenship.

With their property protected and their interests looked after by the federal government, the conferring of citizenship upon them may therefore be regarded with unalloyed satisfaction.

An injustice has been corrected. They, descendants of the original inhabitants of America, the first and in a sense the only true Americans, are given a voice in the management of the republic. In view of the excellent records of public service that have been made by many citizens of Indian ancestry it is not to be douted that they will prove worthy of citizenship.

FEW WANT TO BE VICE PRESIDENT

—o—

A number of eligibles for a place beside Calvin Coolidge on the Republican ticket declined to entertain the idea. One man declined the honor after having been nominated.

Why? A possible reason is that history indicates the office to be a poor incubator for aspirations to higher place. The possibility of succeeding to the presidency if the incumbent die is uncertain, and at best an ascent to the presidency by virtue of a predecessor's death is a success by default. Since the adoption in 1804 of the Twelfth amendment to the constitution, prescribing a new system of electing presidents and vice presidents, exactly one vice president has stepped from that office to the presidency by virtue of an election. Roosevelt was elected after his succession on the death of McKinley; but Millard Fillmore is the only vice president who has been transferred directly from the lower office to the presidency by election since the beginning of the last century.

The idea that election to the vice presidency is a fairly reliable route to political oblivion appears to be more than a superstition. It comes pretty nearly being a fact, and an unfortunate one. It is regrettable that such an office, which should be made a splendid testing ground for likely presidential timber, has served only to obscure the undoubted talents and capacity of many of its occupants.

DRAKES BRANCH, June 18.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—Uncle Windy Wolf of Pleasant Gap sends in the following contribution to this Album of Song, entitled, "Oh, Those Shotgun Blues:"

"An Eastern editor says that a man got himself in trouble by marrying two wives. A Western contemporary replies by assuring the Eastern editor that a good many men in his section have done the same thing by only marrying once. A Southern editor retorts that quite a number of his acquaintances got into trouble enough by only promising to marry. And Junius has a chum who was bothered enough simply by being found in company with another man's wife."

In the hut of Beaver Board,
Dwelt they then with Aunt Jemima,
Mother of the Cutie Cura.

On the shores of Euralyptol,
Hard unto the Liquid Tar Soap,
Aunt Jemima, with her Kodak,
Stood and pointed to the Crisco:

"Yonder dwells the Locomobile,
In the forest of O'Cedar;
He it was who killed Van Heusen,
Slew him with his Kuppenheimer."

Boldly then the Instant Postum
Seized his trusty Biflex Bumper,
Gave his bride one last found Djer-Kiss,
Kissed her by the Coca-Cola.

"I am going, Cutie Cura,
On a long and distant journey,
Where the great names Skinner's Satin
And Palmolive are unknown.

"Guard you well our daughter Jello
And our last-born baby, Newskin."
Launched he then his Evinrude barque
On the shining Pluto Water.

Stood she then and munched the Grape-Nuts
As he chugged-chugged toward the sunset:
While she smiled the smile of Iv'ry,
Shed she tears of Listerine.

SYNOPSIS

Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had crowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary, following a quarrel. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, haad urged him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, forcing his sea jacket upon him. Their launch hits rocks.

Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, rescued, finds injuries have completely changed his appearance.

Ishmin and Dorothy go to Alaska to carry Peter's body back to Georgia. They do not recognize Peter, who is chosen head guide. A storm strands them at the grave. "Change name," a message from a seance, Dorothy believes to be from Peter tellin gher to accept Ishmin's marriage proposal. Ishmin goes for supplies. Peter falls in a gully on a hunting trip. Dorothy finds her greatest happiness in rescuing him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She knew now why, even from the first hour, the grim adventure on this shore had been thrilling to her. She knew why she had befriended Pete against Ivan, why his companionship had been so dear and his protection so comforting; and she understood why her whole world had passed into darkness when she had seen him fall. The first caribou hunt, on her first day in the hills, had given her what had hitherto been an almost-forgotten joy; and every day since that joy had increased. Even from the first hour he had called to her, and she had answered. Evidently this love—and it could be nothing else but love—had been predestined, a thing of the instincts that all the barriers of caste and circumstance could not restrain.

Bu tit must never, never be. Only tragedy lay that way, and she had had enough of tragedy. She looked at the matter calmly; and she knew her only possible course.

The barrier between her and the guide was wholly impassable; and it must be forgotten like a vain dream. He was an exile in the North; she was of cities. He was of the storm and the windy shore, the desolation and the solitude; and she was of warmth and laughter and beauty. He was of another plane and caste, and never the two could meet. Besides, she had gone too far with Ivan to turn away from him. She had given him her promise.

She knew her course. In a few more days she and the man who loved her would launch their boat and row away; and Pete would be left on the desolate shore. They would never cross trails again. Slowly these strange, rapturous memories that already seemed like dreams instead of the living events of the hours just would pale and die, just as many of the memories of Peter had paled and died; his rugged, homely, yet ever-familiar face would fade in her remembrance and the drama in the wilderness would be dimmed by the mists of the past. She would take up her old gaieties, and she would live for Ivan. In time the poignant pain would pass away, and she would find the normal contentment of marriage.

As soon as the Russian returned she would remove all danger by putting herself forever out of Pete's reach. Thus she would defeat her willful heart, cheat the enigmatic destiny that had jested with her so long and perhaps find a humble share of human happiness

Chapter XVI
Ivan Succeeds

Just before noon of the following day Pete—who was resting beside the camp fire—made out a moving speck on the distant, inland hills; and close scrutiny proved it to be Ivan, returning from his quest. In half an hour he would be at camp and Dorothy in his arms.

Pete understood perfectly the full significance of this return. It marked, indeed, the turning point in his own great adventure; his personal watch of the girl would be oyer, and a few hours thereafter she would sail away.

The one joy that was left him was to carry the good news to Dorothy and to watch the dear, remembered kindling of her luminous eyes. He made his way quietly to her tent. a

"Mr. Ishmin is returning," he told her simply, still in the character of Pete the guide. "He's in plain sight already."

The girl's lips parted, but her face did not at once flush with pleasure. Yet her expression showed instant, unmistakable relief. It was all that was needed to convince Pete that the girl had found her happiness; and her was persuaded that her tenderness yesterday, after she had brought him home, was merely an instinctive reaction—an echo of her almost-forgotten love for Peter Newhall— of which her conscious self made no interpretation.

The girl looked breathlessly into Pete's haggard face. Fortunately he did not guess the full truth: that her genuine relief was not at having her lover come again, but only because it permitted her to escape from her own doubts and fears.

She left the camp and trudged up the hill to meet Ivan. He waved to her, a motion brimming with vitality

"WAS THE TRIP ACROSS A SUCCESS?" SHE ASED.

and spirit; and he was graceful as a caribou as he hastened to join her. Evidently the hard trip had left him unscathed He was slightly more brown, perhaps, not quite so well groomed if for no other reason than he had left his shaving kit in camp, but there was no visible trace of fatigue in his dark, handsome face; no change in his easy, graceful carriage

He held the girl close, and she felt the steel of his muscles. There was a world of reassurance here When she returned to her native city, Ivan at her side, when all the witchery of this savage land had paled into dreams, she had every chance to find a full share of happiness in these strong arms

'Was the trip a success?" she asked, radiant from his kiss

"Do you think I'd come back if it weren't? I had the best kind of luck I didn't even get clear to the Pacific shore. A few miles this side I ran into a squaw, laying out a trap line. I got her to go back to her cabin on the coast and get a load of supplies for us, and bring it over as fast as she can—hard bread and canned goods and things we can use on the trip She can get here to-night—she's certain to make it in by tomorrow morning. Then we can take the dory and start out—back to God's country."

"You started back as soon as you'd made arrangements with her?"

"Yes. There was no use to go on. She could bring all the grub she could spare without my help. Besides—I couldn't bear to be away from you any longer."

They walked arm-in-ram down to the camp, and Pavlof glowed at his master's greeting. "You've been comfortable?" he asked of me."

"I'm glad to hear it. We'll add something fancy to his check when we pay him off.' 'He followed Dorothy into her tent, and after she had told him of Pete's accident, he caught her yielding hands. "Dear, I've come back successful, and now I've got something to ask. It's the biggest thing in the world, but it's for your happiness as well as mine."

The girl tried to meet his vivid, magnetic eyes. By a supreme effort she shut from her mind the whisper of fear and the last lingering doubt, and opened her heart to his pleading. "I don't think I can refuse you anything now," she told him.

The slanting eyes glowed like great jewels in the eye sockets of a heathen idol. "We'll be starting tomorrow," he went on. "You and I and the two natives—Pete, I understand, is going to stay here and winter on the mainland. Dear, we have a long, difficult trip before us. We will be tied up at various places on account of bad weather, we will have to fight storms and rough seas—it will be a cold, tough, severe experience the best w eca ndo. Besides that, it's really dangerous."

"But why think of the danger? There isn't any other course open."

"That's just it—there isn't any other course. We can't stay here much longer; winter is likely to break any day. We can't wait any longer for the Warrior to return. But I've got a special reason for pointing out the dangers—dangers pointing out the dangers—dangers that only a fool would deny. It's wholly possible. Dorothy, that the trip will actually put an end to us. There will be constant danger of sudden storms—of being wrecked and lost on the reefs. It's a perilous trip, at best.

"It's best, on a trip like that, that I should be able to look after you and be responsible for you in a much greater degree than I have on this trip. But the main thing is—that if we are to go down to our deaths in the next few days, we want to find the greatest possible happiness first. I know a way that we can be sure of at least a few hours of perfect happiness—that death can never cheat us out of."

"Be merry," she quoted quietly, 'for tomorrow, ye may die!"

"That is the philosophy —the only possible philosophy. Not only to be merry, but to take all that life offers —and not let foolish conventionality or propriety stand in the way. Dorothy, we love each other. We belong to each other. And there is no reason on earth why we should be kept apart any more.

"Pavlof is a native priest, as you already know. The marriages he performs are legal in all this end of the world. A marriage performed when a license is not procurable stands forever just the same, and all the legal end of it could be straightened up when we get to Seward. As for conventionalities — it is much more conventional to take that trip as my wife, even aking into consideration the character of the wedding service and everything else, than to go unchaperoned with three men Ordinarily I would prefer to be married in old St. Paul's as we have often talked of—with the flowers, and the music, and the beauty, and all that goes will it—yet you won' tfeel any lack of solemnity. The sea behind you and the winter clouds above, and those gray cliffs in front will thrill you as much as any vaulted ceiling of a cathedral. The sky and the sea and the hills —all the essentials—and the cross over Peter's grave"

His face was stark white. Evidently the idea of the marriage in the wilderness had fired Ivan's imagination. It appealed to some primitive part of him that she had never fully understood, and to which she could not reach

Diabetes.

—o—

We have learned a great deal about diabetes in the last few years. These are among the newly acquired facts:

1. There are several kinds of diabetes, or, rather, there are several conditions which cause considerable quantities of sugar to be taken from the blood and thrown into the urine.

2. Ordinary diabetes results because all the sugar which finds its way into the blood is beyond the sugar tolerance of the individual in question.

2. The sugar in the system is mostly burned into carbomic acid and thrown off by the lungs.

4. Some sugar is thrown off by the kidneys normally.

5. If the amount in the system is beyond the power of the system to burn, an excess accumulates in the blood, whereupon the amount thrown into the urine becomes considerable enough to show on ordinary urine tests for sugar.

6. Sugar in the blood is derived principally from the food. Of the fats eaten 10 per cent. can go to form sugar. Of the proteids (lean meat and eggs, for example), 58 per cent of the carbohydrates, 100 per cent can ze so used.

7. Excess sugar stored in the liver and muscles, as glycogen, may be turned back into the blood as sugar.

8. When the blood sugar is low, exercising, trembling, and shaking will temporarily increase it.

9. Excessively low blood sugar causes convulsions, unconsciousness, and finally death.

10. When the blood sugar is high, and sugar tolerance is low, as in severe diabetes, the subject can get by on a diet that is very low in sugar-producing elements, if he will lie quietly in bed.

11. Insulin acts by destroying sugar in the tissues.

12. The exact power of insulin to metabolize sugar can be determined. It is expressed in which are known as rabbit units.

13. Insulin is now standardized on the unit basis just as antitoxin is.

14. t is posible now to exactly determine the sugar tolerance of a diabetic; to measre his blood sugar exactly; to know the exact value of his diet.

15. It is possible to know exactly how much sugar in the blood will be metabolized by a given dose of insuli nof a given tait strength.

16. Acidosis indiabetes may be relieved by injectima of insulen or by a diet consisting of one ounce of dry cereal, three and one-third ounces skim milk, and a little orange juice three times daily for a few days, and no other food, or by the diet and insulin given simultaneously.

17. In diabetes the blood must not be allowed to get to rich or too poor in sugar.

18. If a diabetic expects to live for a long time in spite of his disease, he must take courses of lectures, read books and otherwise train himself in the science and art of living in happiness, comfort, and efficiency in spite of diabetes.

19. Physicians and nurses who care for diabetics must learn the science and art of caring for that particular disease.

Had Veronal Habit.

—o—

A. G. Y. writes: Suffering a nervous breakdown about a year ago, I became accustomed to using that infernal poison, veronal. I could not sleep, and finally, in desperation, took a tablet or so of this vile poison. Then it took a stronger amount to affect me. Finally, I got so that eight or nine tablets gave me an everlasting sleep of two or three days' duration; and upon arising I was flighty and now know that I was deliriots and wild from its effects—finally, in such shape I took overdoses deliberately three times in an attempt to end my suffering, but quick action on the part of my wife and doctors saved me each time; then a rest in an expensive sanitarium of $100 a week, until the habit was overcome, and here I am now, a mental wreck and no physical strength and endurance.

What I want to know is, if I live a normal and natural life from now on, being in middle life, sleep full eight or ten hours a night, which I know all nervous people should do, how long do you think it will be before the effects of this violent poisoning have worked out of my system?

I have been months facing the facts in the case—I at first did not believe I took much, but I now know that in my highly nervous state I took immense quantities of the poison for months.

Please advise, that I may have some idea what I can begin to map out for the future for myself and family.

REPLY.

Fortunately, the effects of veronal soon wear off. It does not leave behind the persistent hunger which follows the opium habit. In all probability you are suffering now less from veronal than from a constitutional poor balance made worse by the experiences through which you have gone. The remedy for this is training.

You should recover completely. In fact, the experience may lead you to train yourself into a better poise than you have ever had before. Studying some of the books on poise may help you.

PIRATES AND BRAVES SPLIT HOLIDAY BILL

(By The Associated Press.)

BOSTON, June 17.—Pittsburgh and Boston broke even in the Bunker Hill double-header here today. The Pirates won the opening contest 5 to 2. Boston captured the second 1 to 0. Good pitching marked both contests, but sloppy work by Boston outfielders marred the first game. Sensational catches by Bigbee and Carey at opportune moments saved the day for pitcher Ray Kremer in the first game.

First game:

Pittsburgh	010 000 103	5	9 0
Boston	020 000 000	2	6 1

Kremer and Schmidt; Yeargin and O'Neil.

Second game:

GIANTS BATTER SOTHORON OFF MOUND AND WIN

NEW YORK, June 17.—The New York Giants defeated St. Louis in the second game of the series here today, 5 to 3. The Giants knocked out Sothoron in the 5th inning when they scored four runs on four hits, one of them a home run by Kelly. Bentley pitched an effective game after the early innings for New York.

Score by innings:

St. Louis	110 010 000	3	7 0
New York	010 040 00x	5	10 2

Sothoron, Sherdel and Gonzales, Bentley and Snyder.

ERRORS AND WILDNESS PROVE DOWNGALL OF PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—Although outhit three to one Chicago defeated Philadelphia today 6 to 5. The Cubs made but four hits but they took full advantage of the poor playing by the Phillies. Five errors and eight passes to Chicago batters were too big a handicap for the local sluggers to overcome and althbugh 12 hits were made off Victor Keen, the home team could not produce a punch good enough to win.

Score by innings:

Chicago	000 012 030	6	4 1
Philadelphia	000 030 011	5	12 5

Keen and Hartnett; Glazner, Couch and Wilson.

ERNIE OSBORNE PITCHES DODGES TO VICTORY

BROOKLYN, June 17.—Brooklyn made it two straight from Cincinnati by winning today 5 to 4 Four errors combined with four hits off Benton gave the Dodgers the game in the sixth. Roush hit a double, a triple with two on, a home run and drew a pass. Daubert, who was hit on the head by Pitcher Allan Sothoron, May 28, reported to Manager Hendricks today and practiced with the Reds but did not play.

Score by innings:

Cincinnati	000 000 301	4	7 4
Brooklyn	000 104 00x	5	11 1

Benton, May, Sheehan and Hargrave, Wingo, Osborne and Taylor.

GHEEN AND ROSS ENGAGES IN BEAUTIFUL HEAVING DUEL

RALEIGH, N C., June 17.—In a pitchers' duel between Tom Gheen for High Point and Ross for the Capitals, Raleigh won this afternoon's game by the closest margin—1 to 0 Neither side scored a run until the ninth, when the locals managed to push the winning tally across. Siner singled, was sacrificed to second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Stringfield's long sacrifice fly. While Gheen allowed hte locals only four hits Ross permitted the Furniture Makers to connect safely six times, but the bingles were so scattered that at no time did a visitor reach third base. Ross relieved a tense situation in the fifth when with two on and one out, he fanned two of Herndon's murderers in succession, the only two men he whiffed.

BEATS PADDOCK'S TIME

The Charley Paddock of the middle west is what the experts are calling "Bud" Evans, crack sprinter of the University of Illinois, who recently equaled and bettered marks made by the noted Californian.

Evans ran the 200-meter in 21 1-5 seconds This equals Paddock's record on a straightaway Evans had a turn to make. This circumstance is supposed to represent an added obstacle and as a consequence his time is accepted as better than Paddock's record.

In the 100 meter Evans' time was 10 4-5, the same as Paddock's in the last Olympics.

GREENSBORO AND DURHAM SPLIT A DOUBLE-HEADER

GREENSBORO, June 17.—Greensboro and Durham divided honors in this aftrenoon's double program, the locals winning the first game 7 to 2, and The Bulls copping the stcond 2 to 0. Brummitt, Fuhrey and Zitzke afforded fielding features.

In the second game, a seven-inning affair, Masters, had the locals at his mercy, keeping them away from the platter seven times, while his teammates scored two runs in the fifth when Mallonee knocked a home run with Thompson on, he having been hit. The box scores follow:

WIN OVER WINSTON IS MARKED BY SENSATIONAL FINISH, WESTNEDGE GOOD

Manager Murphy's new pitching acquisition, Westnedge, yesterday turned back the Twins in an 11-inning thriller, 5 to 4, Manager Murphy's single in the eleventh session driving the tying and winning run over

Westnedge, a young left-hander, was very effective, only Second Baseman Waldron being able to find his curves effectively, landing two home run drives. Until the final inning, the Winston men had garnered but five scattered singles, and the trio they got in the eleventh netted but one run. He gave seven bases on balls, but at least two of these were strategic moves. Barring Waldron's two homers, the young hurler held the visitors at all times.

Waldron saved the game for Winston in the eighth when his second circuit-rider knotted the count, after Danville had taken the lead in the seventh Wertz, for the visitors was pitching a steady and effective game, but in the sixth and seventh he began to weaken, and although he tightened up and retired Danville without a hit in the eighth, ninth and tenth innings, the strain began to tell on him in the eleventh. He seemto have plenty of stamina and steam even to the last.

After Trefrey had been retired in the final inning, Staley slammed a corking two-cushion shot into left, and when Hamby threw the ball into left-center, ostensibly in his effort to catch the runner off, nobody received the throw, which was not to the bag, and Staley went to third. Then Regan, trying hard to poke a safety through the inner defences, rapped sharply to Waldron, who, in his anxiety to hold Staley at third let Regan get on Of course, Regan stole second. Then Manager Murphy—the man for a crisis—came up He got Pitcher Wertz in the hole and with two strikes and three balls he met the good pitch and slammed a sizzler over second base while Staley and Regan cantered in Danville's first run was made possible only by Trefrey's brilliant baserunning in the first He had drawn a pass and, evidently on a hit and run play or an attempted steal, was well on the way to second when Staley sent a slow one to Inman, and while the short fielder was retiring the batsman, Trefrey continued his sprint to third Thence he scored on an error. His feat reminded one of the old exploits of Rickert, Powell and others in the old Virginia league days.

A single by Westnedge, who beat out an infield roller by an eyelash, Staley's second hit—this one to right—and Regan's timely shot in the same direction accounted for Danville's second run

With one out, McDonald drove a hard hit to the fence in left center, but the fast fielding of the visitors held him on first. Only for a moment, however, for he got a good lead and pilfered second. Resco in trying to "kill it" fouled several and then was struck out Myers drew a pass, and then Bill Ernst rapped a neat, clean single to left and sent McDonald in with what many hoped would be the decisive run.

Bill Waldrons' buldgeon again put the Twins on even terms by his second circuit drive in the eighth, and only a fast double play via Murphy-Staley-Resco prevented another Twin run. In the Tenth Manager Jackson was cut down at the plate when he tried to score on Hamby's single to right, this being possible only by a fine throw by McDonald.

Long, for the visitors, made two spectacular catches of long drives taking the ball in one hand in each case Staley and McDonald were victims of his spectacular stunts, the first catch being the finer of the two

The fielding of Murphy and Staley and the first-base place of George Resco were factors in the winning of the game, Murphy once catching a batsman at first by one of his run-in-grab-it-and-throw-it plays—all in one motion The work of Resco in handling wide throws on either side handling 14 such chances as he did yesterday, was fine work.

Final Game This Afternoon

The two well matched teams will face each other again today at 4:15 for the final struggle of the series It is not known whom the local manager will pitch, but it is likely to be Shoaf or McWhirter, although left-hand pitching appeared to puzzle the Twins most yesterday.

BRITISH OLYMPIC RIFLE TEAM HANDICAPPED BY SERVICE ARM

LONDON, June 17.—Four ex-service marksmen have been selected to represent Great Britain in the individual rifle competition at the Olympic Games June 27 The team members, selceted after trial shootings at Bisley, are Captain E H Robinson, late of the Royal Air Force, Lieut. A. E. Martin, late of the Royal Army Service Corps; Sergeant A E. Fulton, late of the Queen's Westminsters; and H Douglas, formerly with the 6th Notts and Derby Regiment All four have frequently won important rifle-shooting competitions.

The British riflemen feel that they will be handicapped at the Olympics by the wide range of arms and ammunition open to use by competitors, since all rifle shooting in this country has been regarded from the standpoint of military efficiency, and there are many target weapons more cacurate in obtaining good "grouping" than are service rifles.

DON'T GET ROUGH, GIRLS!

Well, girls will be boys—and hence this thrilling action picture of several spills in a Rugby game between two French teams seeking a place in the Olympic games.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, June 18.—Kirby, Rubien and other officers of the Amateur Athletic Union have no idea that in proposing a new method of scoring points in the Olympics France was shooting at the United States It is merely, they think, that the Europeans are trying to work out a really practicable system of working out results.

The fact that six places will count, whereas the United States will have but four entries in each event, is regarded as one of the obstacles to the proposed idea that the French authorities hurdled in their effort to evolve a definite plan.

The United States expects to win on track and field whatever system of scoring is employed but at the same time our officials will keep track of points in accordance with American methods and will be satisfied thus to win even assuming the Yankees might not win under any new arrangement of scoring that may be installed.

Two men for the walking event are being taken to France, notwith any expectation that they will win a point but merely as an evidence of good faith and as well in hope that interest in walking will be furthered.

As showing the broad mindedness with which the Olympic finals were conducted it might be pointed out that Lee Priester, the southern javelin thrower through some misunderstanding did not arrive at Cambridge until Saturday although Friday was the day None the less he was permitted to enter in the finals of his event and finished second

In the course of the Olympic finals on Saturday—to be specific at three o'clock—a telegram was received by Colonel Thompson purporting to come from Richard Glendon, of Annapolis, who had been coaching the so called Navy officers' crew The telegram said that the sender would be willing to go to France as coach of the Navy officers' eight if the Olympic committee would send him

As the telegram was sent before the final test on the Schuylkill was rowed it reflected a vast amount of optimism on the part of the elder Glendon, assuming, of course, he really sent the dispatch At any rate Colonel Thompson declined with thanks and then later came word of Yale's magnificent victory over the navy boat

Both New York Teams Win Tigers Win From Red Sox

TIGERS AGAIN THREATEN THE WORLD CHAMPIONS

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 18.— Over the prostrate forms of the skidding Red Sox, the Detroit Tigers climbed into second place in the American League and today again are threatening the supremacy of the world champions Yankees. With a 7 to 4 victory, Detroit made it three straight over Boston Dauss allowed ten hits but kept them well scattered.

After staking Cleveland to a five run lead in the first three innings, the Yankees, led by Ruth, who clouted his 16th home run of the season, pulled themselves together and won an uphill victory 7 to 5. Babe brought in the winning run in the seventh when, by a brilliant burst of speed he scored from second while Fewster was throwing out Pipp at first Pipp and Speaker also hit for the circuit.

Pummeling four White Sox pitchers with fifteen lusty blows, the fast traveling senators recorded a 12 to 6 triumph. Chicago also pounded Zachary and Marberry for 13 hits but failed to bunch them as effectively as their opponents. Rice got four singles out of six attempts. By virtue of their victory Washington pulled up to a tie for fifth place with the Browns who were prevented by rain from meeting the Athletics.

The three leaders in the National League, the Giants, Cubs and Robins, maintained their relative standing with victories Long George Kelly resumes his home run spree by slamming out of Sothoron's offerings for a round trip in the fifth

The final count was 5 to 3, with the Cardinals as usual on the small end.

Bentley reversed his customary procedure, starting unsteadily and finishing strong.

The Cubs, who are rapidly earning the White Sox, former Nickname of "Hitless Wonders" produced six runs on four hits, coupled with five Philadelphia errors and eight passes and trimmed Art Fletchers not too hopefuls 6 to 5 The Phillies gave an excellent exhibition of how to waste hits by turning 12 solid wallops into only five markers. Sand of the Phillies got four bingles ou tof as many times at bat

In spite of the herculean stickwork of Roush, who hammered out a double, triple and homer, Brooklyn made it two straight over Cincinnati with a 5 to 4 win. The Reds placed four errors and the game on a platter in the seventh and graciously handed it to the Robins Jack Daubert, who has been out of the game since May 23, when he was beaned by Sothoron of the Cardinals, reported to Manager Hendricks but did not play.

Pittsburgh partially ruined Boston's Bunker Hill day celebration by taking the first session of a double header 3 to 2 and giving the Braves a close rub in the sunset encounter, which the home team nosed out by 1 to Sterling defensive play b Bigbee and Carey of the Pirates materially aided pitcher Ray Kremer in the opener.

JAZZ RUINING YOUTH, CLUB LEADER THINKS

By JACK JUNGMEYER

LOS ANGELES, June 18.— Is the wild cacophony of the jazz orchestra a war whoop inciting modern young city savages to anti-social and criminal ventures?

Mrs. Anne. Faulkner Oberndorfer, national music chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, brands it just that in an effort to marshal American women against further spread of the world's most virulent tonal epidemic.

"Boys and girls are going wrong in alarming numbers," says Mrs. Oberndorfer, "because they get drunk on jazz—quite as powerful an intoxicait as alcohol.

"Some declare this provocative rhythm a mere symptom of our speedy reckless age., but I believe it is also a decided cause, leading to much delinquency

"It's Savage"

"We have long glibly quoted the mild phrase "music hath power to soothe the savage beast," but we don't seem to have comprehended the powerful physical effect of musical vibration, its power to excite as well as to allay the savage breast wh[illegible] throbs under the thin skin of civilization

"A vibratory' force that can rock bridges, break window glass, set inertia in motion, may play havoc with the sensitive human structure Its effect depends upon the rhythm, upon stimulus of vague and varying race memories

"When the American Indian wanted to awaken his bestiality to fever pitch, he first subjected himself to the monotonous tom-tom of primitive music The same with the jungle blacfi. They knew its savage potency.

"In some sections of our southern states women for years locked their doors and windows when the negroes of the swamps began chanting their "blues."

Youth Can't Resist

"Jazz is the modern echo of ominous incantation—the pound, pound, pound that fires leaping pulses and allays the safety inhibitions slowly built up for social deportment from time immemorial

"I tis disorder, anarchy, the churning of primitive impulse, bound to stir the jungle beast, more or less, whether its devotees recognize it or not The more thoroughly disciplined, the adult, may be able to ward off its promptings, but the immature, the adolescent, cannot withstand its call

"Shaken off their balance by long and reiterated sessions of tom-tomery, often night after night in thousands of dance places and as many thousand homes, youngsters are insidiously impelled toward criminal recklessness.

"ublishers of popular songs not alone stress the jungle rhythm but also permit the use of the most suggestive and perversive words and ideas.

"Unless we expect our young folk to revert to a sort of sophisticated Voodooism we must encourage the return of law and order, form and balance in music

"We must make good music popular and popular music good."

NEW YORK, June 18 — Some of America's best golfers have begun experimenting with deeper faced drivers, although the yhave not gone so far as Major Gillies, the British golfer who as was noted in this column recently, has been working with a deeper faced club and a tee a foot or more in height

Jones, Hagen and others, however, realized that Major Gillies was taking a step in the right direction, that it is possible to get a lower ball into the wind by use of a moderately high tee and a deep faced club than with the thinner faced drivers which tend to shoot more under the ball. Both Hagen and Jones are said to be getting better results under the new system

Development of the larger headed club has come from the first from England. The writer well remembers crossing on the steamer with a couple of Englishmen who brought the first of the so-called dreadnaughts to this country. At that time they looked very wierd, but practically every body uses them now in some form or another.

Golf if truly having a hard time these days besides the argument over Bob Zuppke s statement that golf was developing Champion 'Crabs and cussers" we have the criticism by a Presbyterian assembly that the game is an enemy of religion because it keeps 10,000 caddies from Sunday school As a matter of fact, many golf clubs have a rule forbidding caddies on Sunday, while others allow them only in the afternoon. The number of Sunday working caddies probably is far under 100,000.

MURPHY'S lone hit of the game came at the most opportune time it could have come Winston one run to the good, and with runners on second and third, Boss Herb poked a single between third and short and terminated a brilliant battle after 11 sensational innings and the crowd went away discussing the fine points and brilliant plays, offering no criticism—Danville had won The victory evened the count This afternoon's game will decide who cops the series

Lefty Westnedge, a youngster, made an auspicious start in the Piedmont He had a world of stuff on the ball, in fact he had his curves breaking so deep and his drops dropping so sudden that he was inclined to be unable to "find" the plate Waldron was the only Twin who really solved his delivery Aside from his two homers, six scattered hits was all they could do A little more control and Westnedge will rank among the best twirlers in the Piedmont Murphy considers him a "find" and does not intend to let him get away from him.

But with Wilson returning within a few days, Murphy is faced with the problem of releasing one player It will be a hard task, but Murphy probably has it all doped out and no doubt will decide for the best.

The two new players secured from Winston in trade for Inman seem to be playing with renewed spirit since they have landed in new surroundings Especially young Staley is showing up good He is fielding the keystone position in great style and hitting the ball hard. He got three out of five yesterday, one a double. Myers is holding down the hot corner in good style but as yet hasn't found his batting eye, though he did get a couple of bingles on Monday.

Trefry made a brilliant running catch of Werts' drive to left center in the eleventh Long robbed McDonald and Staley of two baggers when he stabbed drives with one hand back against the centerfield fence Murphy Staley and Resco played a nice game, which was a factor in the local's victory

Another pleasing part of the game from a local standpoint, was that the Murphy's wallops were timely Five runs out of eight hits proves this for those who did not see the game.

One run came without a hit, thank's to Trefry's daring bit of base running in the first He had goten a good lead and went from first to third on an infield out, then counted when Jackson threw the ball away tryinch to catch him at the hot corner.

McDonald made a pretty peg and Bill Ernst made a nice play at the plate in nabbing Jackson Another runner was also cut off at the scoring station Old Bill just naturally lays up against the runner, taking no chances in letting him hook around him or jump over his hand He came near making Jackson swallow the ball once.

Littlejon hit such a hot one which stuck in Westnedge's glove before he could get out of the way, that George Resco didn't see where the ball went. He covered the sack and was looking for Murphy or Staley to throw the runner out, when he saw Westnedge had the ball. With plenty of time, Westnedge threw the ball away and Littlejohn went to second. He was left stranded however, for Lefty struck out the next batsman and forced the other two to pop up.

Resco made a nice play in the ninth when he ran towards second took Long's grounder and slid into the bag just a few inches ahead of the runner. Westnedge was a little slow in covering the base and the slide was necessary

Eddie Regan made nice catches off Waldron and Standeart in the third inning, the latter being the most brilliant of the two

Lenglen and Wills May Meet In Tennis Finals

(By The Associated Press.)

WIMBLEDON, June 18—Miss Helen Wills, the American woman tennis champion, was defeated in her singles match in the team event today between the American and British women representatives. Mrs Phylis Covel, of England, won from the young Californian in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Kathleen McKane, of England, won her match from Mrs Molla Mallory, former American champion, 6-3, 6-3

Miss Wills accepted defeat unperturbed After the match she calmly chatted with Mrs Wightman and others clustered about the umpire's perch, drank a glass of water and posed with Mrs. Covell, for the photographers.

Miss Wills started well, winning the first three points at the opening of the match but she soon lost her steadiness Afterward she deuced and double faulted twice and only a few flashes of her best form were on exhibition.

The American champion favored her back hand, using it almost exclusively in the first set She seldom went to the net while Mrs Covell frequently advanced for finished smashes In the second set, after Mrs Covell led 5-2, Miss Wills changed her tactics and volleyed well She put over a few beautiful cut shots and won the eighth and 9th games She exhibited fine speed in her last game but was banging against a flawless player

LONDON, June 18—Susanne Lenglen, women's law tennis champion of the world, and Helen Wills, the American title holder, are seeded in the opposite halves of the coming singles championship play at Wimbledon, so there is a good possibility of their meeting in the finals to decide the question of supremacy.

The drawing took place today. Most of the nations participating had nominated from two to four players for seeding in each quarter of the draw For each nation only four players or pairs were allowed to be seeded in any one event. The seeded Americans are, men's singles—Williams, Washburn Hunter and Richards

Men's doubles—Williams and Washburn and Richards and Hunter.

Ladies' singles—Mrs Wightman, Miss Wills, Mry. Mallory and Miss Goss

Mixed doubles—Richards and Miss Jessup: Williams nad Mrs. Wightman: Washburn and Miss Goss: Hunter and Miss Scharman

Ladies' doubles—Mrs Wightman and Miss Wills: Miss Goss and Mrs Jessup: Miss Sears and Miss Saindis-Taylor: Miss Sigourney and Miss Scharman.

In addition to being seeded in the singles Mlle Lenglen is also placed in the mixed doubles with M. Borotra.

PLAN HOT GOLF LINKS

HONOLULU, June 17—One of the most remarkable golf courses in the world is being built almost at the mouth of the boiling, seething volcana of Kilauea. They fiery pit of the volcanoe itself may be one of the hazards of the course Besides the chance of losing a ball in the molten lava there will always be the possibility of an earth tremor adding to the excitement of a good game.

One gorilla killed three hunters and two natives in five minutes in an African jungle.

ROOKIE WHO HELD VETS UP FOR $6,000 IS FIRED

NEW YORK, June 18—Ball players have been known to eat themselves out of the big league Some have talked themselves out of the majors Mike Gazella, who made the spring trip with the New York Yankees, enjoys the unique distinction of being the only player in captivity to finance himself out of the big show

Gazella, a former Lafayette College star, joined the Yankees in June of last year. He was carried by the club throughout the season, although he got into only a couple of games for a few innings.

When the Yankees got into the world series the veteran stars on the club decided that a present of about $500 would be enough for Gazella

The college recruit rebelled at so small a sum and took the matter up with Manager Huggins, who agreed with him The two decided that about $1500 would be a fair split for Gazella The regulars agreed to it

Then after everything seemed settled, some kind friend informed Gazella that he had been with the Yankees long enough to be entitled to a full share, under the baseball laws governing the disposition of world series prize money

Gazella proceeded to take the matter up with Judge Landis, who sustained his plea for a full share

Thus the Yankee regulars, who at first intended to give Gazella only $500, were compelled by the judge to slip him a full share calling for better than $6000.

The NUT CRACKER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

IN THE BLEACHERS

"Boy, I guess them Red Sox ain't stepping high, wide and attractive"

"You don't mean to stand there and tell me you are actually as simple as you look?"

"I'm not talking about what Gloria Swanson sees in me I'm talking about the way Lee Fohl and his playmates are knocking the other teams loose from their riparian rights"

"You ain't surprised, are you?"

"Not any more so than if the noisy Mr. Coolidge had declined the nomination

"You must be one of them dumb eggs that believe everything you see and twice as much as you hear."

"Well, it'd take more than a bird like you to convince me the flood was staged by an umberra trust"

"If I was a hen I'd never waste my time setting on a marble door knob, and I ain't gonna waste my time now trying to convince you about anything—"

"You ain't going out of your way to be nice to me, are you, Felix?"

"I'll say this, though, if you really believe baseball is on the up and up, then you was either born on foolish Friday or you fell off a tall building when you was young."

"So that's what you are spilling all these syllables about! You're trying to tell me this Red Sox spurt isn't on the level, huh?"

"If it's on the level carbolic makes a neat eye wash. The Yankees are just laying back and letting 'em win a few ball games."

"I suppose Mr. Huggins is responsible for all them shutout games Ehmke and Quinn are pitching, too?"

"Aw a guy gets about as far arguing with you as La Follette got at the Clevelnad convention"

"And I suppose he writes to Veach and Boone and Flagstead every day and tells 'em how many hits they should get in the afternoon s game?"

"Go climb a wart I can get more satisfaction talking to a plain ordinary half-wit than—"

"Well go on and talk to yourself, there ain't no law against—"

Final Selection of U. S. Athletes Not Yet Made

(By The Associated Press.)

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP AMERICA, June 18—Final selection of the athletes who are to represent the United States in the Olympic track and field events is being delayed to the eleventh hour, stimulating the substitutes to fight for places and keeping the stars on edge.

This policy was decided upon by the coaches today and announced to the athletes by Lawson Robertson, head of the coaching staff, who emphasized that an open mind would be maintained regarding the selections Thus the showing on shipboard is of paramount importance since the definite entries, of which there are not more than four for each event will be filed with the French committee in Paris Tuesday, when the America is due to dock.

Joie Ray, who won the 3,000 metre tryout, is anxious to run in the 1,500 metre event against Paavo Nurmi, but it is understood the coaches insist his best chances of victory are in the 3,000 or 5,000 metres

Some radical changes are likely to result from the tests, which were in full swing today under the eyes of the seven coaches

U. of Washington Retains Honor

(By The Associated Press.)

POUGHKEEPSIE N. Y. June 18 Champions of the intercollegiate regatta association since last June, the University of Washington is today in possession of the honor for another year. After leading most of the way the far westerners in yesterday's varsity event flashed over the finish line more than a length ahead of the Wisconsin crew, whose brilliant fight was the feature of a spectacular race.

The poor showing of the Pennsylvania Valley crew picked as a strong contender, was the greatest surprise of the day. Pennsylvania finished in fourth place and almost four boat lengths behind Washington

Consolation was derived by eastern supporters from Pennsylvania's victories in the junior varsity and freshman events

It will be the first time a Pennsylvania crew had captured the junior varsity race at Poughkeepsie.

The time for the varsity race was 15:02 as compared with the course of 15 33 3-5 established by the navy in 1922 Rough water and a stiff breeze from the South handicapped the oarsmen.

PHONE HEART BEATS TO SAVE LIFE

STUDENTS IN THE UNIVERSITY MEDICAL SCHOOL "LISTENING" ON THE NEEW STETHOPHONE DEVELOPE DBY THE WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY. INSET SHOWS A PHYSICIAN EXAMINING A PATIENT WITH HIS NEW DEVICE. MOUNTED ON A "TEA WAGON."

NEW YORK, June 18.— They are telephoning heartbeats now. And scientists say the results may be more wide reaching than even those of 'phoning photographs.

For the stethophone, the new electric stethoscope developed by engineers of the Western Electric Company, is expected to throw new light on the treatment of heart disease and the early detection of tuberculosis.

It makes possible the wholesale "listening-in" on the murmurs that mean so much in diagnosing heart and lung disease.

Five hundred physicians attending a medical convention in Chicago sat spell-bound as they heard together the regular "thump, thump" of a patient's heart, interspersed with the hissing sound of a leaky heart valve.

Students in the University of Pennsylvania Medical School have used the new device in their studies, and find it an enormous advance over the old way of listening in rotation. The professor in charge explains the case, and then all listen in at once. A few comments, and all listen again Then the patient is taken away, and another one brought in Perhaps the patient does not appear before the class at all—the stethophone is taken to his bedside and connected by wires to the class room.

The stethphone consists of a three-stage vacuum tube amplifier mounted on wheels like the familiar tea wagon. The sounds are picked up by pressing an electrical chest-piece against the patient's body. After amplification the electrical currents go to head receivers equipped either with stethoscope tubes or covered with soft rubber against stethoscope. A group of electrical filters cut out undesired sounds so the listeners can concentrate on what is most important.

By using the stethophone as a "microscope" for body sounds(physicians hope soon to be able to make earlier diagnosis of tuberculosis.

In childbirth, too, the ease with which the child's heartbeats can be followed may save many lives. The physician or nurse can listen continuously, either through a head set with a long cord, or by connecting a loud speaker One grave danger to the child is indicated by a change in its pulse, and when this appears instant action must be taken to save its little spark of life.

In New York

NEW YORK, June 18 — New York newspapers take a delight in snickering at anything provincial, or small townish.

This is difficult to understand.

For there is scarcely a writer or desk man on any of the New York newspapers who did not come from the open spaces.

Practically the entire newsgathering personnel of a local morning paper was schooled in Kansas City

In one large press association office there is not a member of the staff who was born in New York state

The reason is simple New York papers do not have time to train "cubs."

Of all the newspapermen I know, only one was reared in New York City. And he is the most demure unsophisticated member of the entire lot.

* * *

Just now there is an oversupply of good newspapermen in New York. There have been several consolidations and withdrawals of papers, leaving many men out of work.

* * *

I sat in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison the other day. Scores have been electrocuted in it. The chair is an ordinary bit of furniture, resembling the light varnished, caned-seated variety of grand-daddy's time. It is equipped with leather straps in which men about to be executed are secured.

There is something uncomfortable about the chair—it doesn't "sit right." But then it wasn't built for comfort.

If they ever get through with it at Sing Sing, I'd never bid for it as an addition to my living room set.

Everyman's Investments

By GEORGE T. HUGHES

(Thirty-second article)

PUBLIC UTILITY BONDS

Public utility bonds as a class rank next to those of railroads as investments. In some respects the public utility bonds have the advantage. Both the railroads and the public utilities are subject to regulaion by the state, but in recent years this regulation has been more intelligent and more fair to the companies in the case of the utilities than with the rails. There are, of course, exceptions locally but the rule is as stated. For one thing, the utilities have been wiser in handling of their public relations than have the railroads, and the customer ownership campaigns have been a great succes in furthering these good relations. It is significent that the corporation which has the largest number of stockholders of any organization in America is a public utility, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. Like the railroads, the utilities furnish an absolutely essential service. We cannot get along without telephones, gas or electric light. Every year the demand for this kind of service increases. There seems to be no limit to the expansion of the telephone service and continually new uses are being found for electricity in the house, on the farm and in the shop. It is not surprising then that conservative investors look with favor on the bonds and the preferred stock of well-managed companies furnishing this service. When there is a long record of profitable operation and conservative financing even common stock of such companies command an investment rating. It is true that some of the staates, such as New York and New Jersey do not allow savings banks to buy first mortgage utility bonds but there is no good reason for this discrimination. It is a relic of the days when only government and municipal bonds and railroad issues were considered good enough for the savings bank to invest in. Some of the states are more liberal in this respect and their number is bound t ogrow. Railroad bonds of the savings bank class bring an artificially high price in many instances, making it still more advantageous for the individual investor to select ultilties not legal investments, but to all practical purposes just as secure.

MORNING STOCK LETTER

(Thomson & McKinnon)

NEW YORK, June 18.—General Dawes, who is likely to be the next vice-president of the United States, convinces us if more evidence was needed that he is made of the material of which world leaders are made. In talking with his neighbors he denounces demagogues. A demagogue in politics is the humbug in business, neither is any good. And to illustrate the truth of what he says, we have a wonderful advance in the price of wheat without congressional legislation, without the McNary-Haugen bill. The law of supply and demand beats laws of Congress.

The General Motors Company will issue monthly reports. In a little while a big company will be looked upon as old-fashioned and orderving of confidence that won't fall in line with the new idea.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is going to electrify. All the railroads will do it after a while. What a wonderful outlook for the electrical companies I am bullish for the long pull.

DECEIVING

Some business men are wearing long faces because the railroads have over 300,000 idle freight cars that are in good repair and ready for use and about 180,000 other cars that are laid up for repairs.

The total is staggering, at first glance. But the importance of everything is only by comparison. The railroads own over two and a quarter million freight cars. The actual situation is that, out of every 23 cars, 18 are being used constantly and only five are idle. That's not so bad.

FARMERS

Farmers are buying more than in 1923. From the first of the year to June 1, the two largest mail order houses—Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery-Ward—sold 154 million dollars worth of goods, compared with 146 millions in the corresponding five months of last year.

Farm buying power right now is an especially good backlog for city industries. Common sense should induce the city man to do everything possible to keep that backlog in good shape. The prosperity of the city man depends considerably on the prosperity of the farmer.

OFFSPRING

A Rhode Island woman, who died recently at 82, left 85 direct descendants. If everybody were as prolific, in a few generations the earth would be too crowded for any one to lie down.

Why waste time wondering why we die? The answer is, to make room for newcomers. Life is a journey between two unknown stations. We don't know where our souls came from. And some are not so sure about where they'll go after their hearts stop beating.

WEATHER

We are creatures of the weather. Small wonder we talk about it so much. Retailers blame the late spring for the business recession. Laggard weather held back the sales of spring clothing and other seasonal commodities. That put a lot of makers out of work. The weather was like a dam, backing up dull business into many channels.

THEN

Why have heart failure because the iron and steel business has been so dull lately? In May, the output of pig iron dropped a lot. But, at that, it was almost as much as in May of 1913, one of the best pre-war banner years.

The nation is gradually adjusting itself to peace-time production, after abnormal war-time activity.

"GAS"

It gives one a headache to contemplate statistics about sales of gasoline. The American people have been using a fourth more gasoline than a year ago. Sales are reported as over 600 million gallons a month for the whole country. This is especially interesting and important if you own good oil stocks.

COMING

Money isn't timid lately. That's one of the most encouraging things about the general business situation. In May 515 million dollars worth of new bonds and other securities were placed on the market. In May, last year, less than half that much. Promoters, with keen instinct, sense that the public has a strong under-current for confidence in the near future. Otherwise, there'd be fewer new securities issued to finance business expansion and new ventures.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—The cotton market opened quiet but steady; first trades showed gains of 4 to 8 points over the previous close. July promptly eased off 16 points to 27.94 and October dropped to 24.92 or 13 points off from the opening high. Liverpool was better than due with spot sales of 8,000 bales and west Texas sent reports of damaging of hot winds and sand storms. Sentiment nevertheless seemed reactionary because of the poor goods trade and mill curtailment. It was claimed that the hot wave in Texas was unabated.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 18.—Conflicting reports concerning the effects of continued high temperatures on crop progress in the southwest seemed largely responsible for nervous and irregular fluctuations in today's early trading in the cotton market.

Liverpool was better than due and after opening at a decline of 1 to 6 points prices here steadied on covering, selling 3 or 4 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Offerings increased on the bulge, however, and prices soon reacted from 28.58 to 28.48 for July and from 25.77 to 25.65 for October, making the market about 6 to 10 points net lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 18.—Conflicting price movements marked the opening of today's stock market, as numerous shares, notably the oils, offered resistance to selling pressure, while others showed the effects of confident buying. Fluctuations mainly were confined to moderate fractions, but Atlantic Refining was an exception, dropping 1 3-4 points. Accumulation of tobacco issues was resumed. Schulte advancing smartly.

With oil shares continuing to display marked sensitiveness to unsettled trade conditions and with support lacking for some motor and accessory issues, prices developed a heavier tone after opening orders had been disposed of. Several low priced rails yielded sharply, including St. Louis and Southwestern. Atlantic Refining extended its early loss to almost 3 points, touching a new low figure for the year along with Royal Dutch, Tidewater Oil, Chandler and Woolworth also eased off. Chemicals and public utilities, however, were purchased. Brooklyn Union Gas, selling at the year's highest price, led an advance in local gas issues. Baldwin, "Nickel Plate" and Utah Copper moved up a point each. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

MORNING COTTON LETTER
